MESSAGE

I am immensely happy that a new edition of the pocket Gita is being printed for the benefit of all seekers after Truth. The Govindram Chulani Trust is rendering a great service to the Dharmic and spiritual minded people by undertaking to bring out this edition in the noble spirit of Paropakara and of Jnana Yajna or the dissemination of spiritual knowledge. The Divine Teachings of the Lord, contained in the Bhagavad Gita is a most valuable treasure which the people of India have been fortunate enough to obtain as part of their cultural heritage. As such, every citizen of India (especially the young citizens) should really undertake the journey of life after first obtaining the knowledge given in this most important scripture, the Bhagavad Gita. I congratulate Sri Govindram Chulaniji for sponsoring this spiritual undertaking.

May God bless him and all members of his entire family. I pray to the Lord to bless and bestow grace upon each and everyone of the readers who study this book. May this new edition of pocket Gita have the widest circulation which it fully deserves. Jai Sri Krishna.

May the light of Gita Jnan guide your footsteps to ultimate perfection:

With regards, Prem & Om,

Yours, in the Lord,

Publishers' Note

---

The Bhagavad Gita is one of the world-scriptures today. It guides the lives of people all over the world. Mahatma Gandhi regarded it as the "Mother", to whom the children (humanity) turned when in distress. Sri Swami Sivananda wants us to study daily at least one discourse of the scripture, so that its great lessons are ever fresh in our memory.

Each discourse has been preceded by a short summary giving the substance of that discourse in a nutshell.

We are extremely grateful to Chulani Trust, Bombay for the printing of this book and also to the world President of the Divine Life Society, His Holiness Sri Swami Chidananda.

Foreword

The modern man in this present decade of the second half of the 20th century is greatly in need of an effective guide to light. He is groping. He sees only problems everywhere and no solutions are to be found anywhere. He does not know which way to turn, what course to adopt and how to move towards a better state of things. Therefore his life is filled with restlessness, unhappiness and complication. The Bhagavad Gita contains words of wisdom and practical teachings that contain the answers to the above-mentioned condition of the present-day human individual.

The Bhagavad Gita is a message addressed to each and every human individual to help him or her to solve the vexing problem of overcoming the present and progressing towards a bright future. This holy scripture is not just an "old scripture", nor is it just a book of "religious teachings", nor even a Hindu holy book. It transcends the bounds of any particular religion or race, and is actually divine wisdom addressed to mankind for all times, in order to help human beings face and solve the ever-present problems of birth and death, of pain, suffering, fear, bondage, love and hate. It enables man to liberate himself from all limiting factors and reach the state of perfect inner balance, inner stability and mental peace, complete freedom from grief, fear and anxiety. Within its eighteen chapters is revealed a human drama. This is the experience of everyone in this world, the drama of the ascent of man from a state of utter dejection, sorrow and total breakdown and hopelessness to a state of perfect clarity, understanding, renewed strength and triumph.

Each discourse holds for you an invaluable new lesson and imparts a new understanding of yourself in a marvellous way. The mystery of man, this world and God is explained as perhaps nowhere else. The workings of your mind—the real problem to your welfare and happiness—how to overcome it, what the path to blessedness is, as also the path to perdition, the secret of self-mastery and the way to peace amidst your duties and activities—all these and more you will find in this great treasure. It is yours by which to enrich your life.

To the Western reader I would suggest that he carefully reads through the entire book once. Then he should commence it a second time. Upon the second reading he should adopt the method of selectivity, not in reading but in what he takes from it. Such things as seem to be particularly Hindu and therefore, perhaps, not acceptable to him as a person of another faith, he can just pass by without being perturbed. But everything else that is of a purely philosophical, psychological, ethical and psychical nature,—all these he can grasp and assimilate fully. He will be wonderfully enriched and supremely blessed. His life will become new from that moment. All the clouds will vanish. Light will fill the heart and mind. I assure him of this. This is the Gita.

I commend this wonderful gift of God unto every man and woman, towards his or her supreme blessedness and highest welfare.

Swami Chidananda

Preface

---

In the whole world-literature there is no book so elevating and inspiring as the Gita. It expounds very lucidly the cardinal principles or the fundamentals of the Hindu religion and Hindu Dharma. It is the source of all wisdom. It is your great guide. It is your supreme teacher. It is an inexhaustible spiritual treasure. It is an ocean of knowledge. It is a fountain of bliss. It is full of divine splendour and grandeur.

The Gita is the cream of the Vedas. It is the very essence of the Upanishads. It is a universal scripture for people of all temperaments and for all times.

Man is a composite of three fundamental factors—feeling, cognition and will. People have three different kinds of temperaments—the active temperament, the emotional and the rational. So there are three Yogas—Jnana Yoga for the man of enquiry and self-analysis or rational temperament, Bhakti Yoga for the man of emotional temperament, and Karma Yoga for the man of active temperament. One Yoga is as efficacious as the other. The Gita formulates the theory of the three paths: that of Jnana, Bhakti and Karma. According to its teachings, there are no conflicts among the three. It harmonises the philosophy of action, devotion and knowledge. All three must be blended harmoniously if you wish to attain perfection. You should have the head of Sri Sankara, the heart of Lord Buddha and the hand of Janaka.

The central teaching of the Gita is the attainment of the final beatitude of life or perfection or freedom by doing the duties of life. This can be achieved through non-attachment to the fruits of actions.

The eighteen chapters of the Gita are not woven in a disconnected or discordant manner. There is intimate relationship or vital connection between one chapter and another. Arjuna was very despondent, and the teachings of the second chapter, which bespeak of the immortality of the soul, opened his eyes and gave him strength and courage. Arjuna then understood the technique of Karma Yoga and renunciation of the fruits of actions. Then he learnt the methods to control the senses and the mind and to practise concentration and meditation. Then the Lord gave a description of His various manifestations in order to prepare him for the vision of the Cosmic Form. After Arjuna experienced the magnificent Cosmic Vision, he understood the nature of a Jivanmukta or Bhagavata. Then he had knowledge of the Field and the Knower of the Field, of the three Gunas and the Purushottama. Then he had knowledge of the divine attributes and the three kinds of faith, and the essence of Sannyasa Yoga in the end. Finally, Arjuna exclaimed: "O my Lord! my delusion has been destroyed. I have attained knowledge through Thy Grace. I am now firm. All my doubts have vanished completely. I shall act according to Thy word."

Attachment is due to Moha (infatuation). Attachment is the offspring of the quality of Rajas (passion). Attachment is born of ignorance, selfishness and passion. Attachment brings death while non-attachment brings wisdom. Attachment to God or the Atman is a potent antidote to annihilate all worldly attachments. He who has no attachment can really love others. He has pure love in action. Thus he will reach the Self.

Introduction

Dhritarashtra and Pandu were brothers. Dhritarashtra married Gandhari, and Pandu was married to Kunti and Madri. King Pandu was cursed for a sin while hunting, due to which he was not permitted to unite with his wife. Kunti got a boon through her sincere service of a wise sage in her younger age, and she begot three children, namely, Yudhishthira, Bhima and Arjuna from Yama, Vayu and Indra respectively. Madri had twins, Nakula and Sahadeva, through the celestial physicians called Asvini-Devatas. Dhritarashtra had a hundred and one children by his wife Gandhari. Pandu passed away and his sons, the Pandavas, were all brought up by Dhritarashtra along with his sons known as Kauravas. The Pandavas and Kauravas grew up together, but due to the braveness and intelligence of the former, the Kauravas were unable to tolerate them. Hence the Pandavas decided to live separately, sharing half of their kingdom.

The Pandavas' pomp, wealth and glory displayed during the Rajasuya Yajna aroused deep jealousy and greed in the mind of Duryodhana, the chief of the Kauravas, who, with the cunning advice of his uncle, Sakuni, invited Yudhishthira to a game of dice and fraudulently defeated him, whereby all his wealth and possessions, including Draupadi, were lost. Finally, it was settled that the Pandavas, including Draupadi, should repair to the forest for twelve years in exile, after which they had to live incognito for another year, untraced by the Kauravas. During this period the kingdom was to be ruled by the wicked Duryodhana.

Having successfully completed these thirteen years of exile, facing many obstacles and dangers instigated by the Kauravas, the Pandavas, as per the terms of the agreement, approached the Kauravas for their share of the kingdom. Duryodhana, however, flatly refused to part with as much land as could be covered by the point of a needle. According to the advice of Mother Kunti and with the inspiration of Lord Krishna, the Pandavas decided upon war and tried to establish their rightful claim on the kingdom by overcoming the Kauravas.

Duryodhana and Arjuna, from the side of the Kauravas and Pandavas respectively, were sent to Dwaraka to seek the help of the Yadava hero, Lord Krishna, in the battle. They both found Krishna resting on a couch in His palace. Duryodhana went in and occupied a seat at the head of the couch while Arjuna stood near the feet of the Lord. The moment Sri Krishna opened His eyes, He naturally saw Arjuna first, and then Duryodhana sitting on a chair. After enquiry of their welfare and the purpose of their visit, Sri Krishna, according to the prevailing custom, gave the first choice to Arjuna, because of his age, and also because of His sight of Arjuna first. Krishna asked Arjuna to fulfil his desire by selecting Him unarmed or His powerful army called Narayani Sena. Arjuna, who was a devotee of Sri Krishna, expressed his desire to have the Lord with him, neglecting the powerful Narayani Sena, even though Krishna warned that He would remain a witness, bound by the vow of not participating in battle and not taking up arms. Duryodhana, with great delight, thinking that Arjuna was foolish, expressed his wish for the powerful army to help his side in the battle.

When Krishna asked Arjuna why he chose Him when He was not for taking up arms, Arjuna said, "O Lord! You have the power to destroy all the forces by a mere sight. Why then should I prefer that worthless army? I have for a long time been cherishing a desire in my heart that you should act as my charioteer. Kindly fulfil my desire in this war.”

Introduction

The Lord, who is ever the most devoted lover of His devotees, accepted his request with pleasure; and thus Krishna became the charioteer of Arjuna in the battle of the Mahabharata.

After the return of Duryodhana and Arjuna from Dwaraka, Lord Krishna Himself went once to Hastinapura as the emissary of the Pandavas and tried to prevent the war. But then, under the guidance of Sakuni, the egoistic Duryodhana refused to agree to the peace mission and tried to imprison Lord Krishna, at which Krishna showed His Supreme Form (Viswarupa). Even the blind Dhritarashtra saw it by the Lord's Grace. King Dhritarashtra, due to his attachment to his sons, failed to control them, and the Kaurava chief, Duryodhana, with vain hope, decided to meet the powerful Pandavas in war.

When both sides were prepared to commence the battle, the sage Veda Vyasa approached blind Dhritarashtra and said, “If you wish to see this terrible carnage with your own eyes I can give you the gift of vision.” The Kaurava king replied, “O Chief of the Brahmarishis! I have no desire to see with my own eyes this slaughter of my family, but I should like to hear all the details of the battle.”

Then the sage conferred the gift of divine vision on Sanjaya, the trusty counsellor of the king, and told the king, “Sanjaya will describe to you all the incidents of the war. Whatever happens in the course of the war, he will directly see, hear or otherwise come to know. Whether an incident takes place before his eyes or behind his back, during the day or during the night, privately or in public, and whether it is reduced to actual action or appears only in thought, it will not remain hidden from his view. He will come to know everything, exactly as it happens. No weapon will touch his body nor will he feel tired.”

After the ten days of continued war between the Pandavas and the Kauravas, when the great warrior Bhishma was thrown down from his chariot by Arjuna, Sanjaya announces the news to Dhritarashtra. In agony the king asks Sanjaya to narrate the full details of the previous ten days war, from the very beginning, in all detail as it happened. Here commences the Bhagavad Gita.

Summary of First Discourse

The great Mahabharata war between the Pandavas and the Kauravas took place on the holy plain of Kurukshetra. After the failure of Lord Krishna's peace mission, when He Himself went to Hastinapura as the emissary of the Pandavas, there was no other alternative for the Pandavas but to engage in war for their rightful share of the kingdom.

All the famous warriors from both sides had assembled on the battlefield. Tents and wagons, weapons and machines, chariots and animals covered the vast plain.

Lord Krishna arrived on the scene in a magnificent chariot yoked by white horses. He was to act as the charioteer of Arjuna, one of the Pandava princes.

The din of hundreds of conches, blaring forth suddenly, announced the commencement of the battle. Arjuna blew his conch "Devadatta", while Bhima, his brother, sounded the "Paundra". All the others blew their respective conches.

As the two armies were arrayed, ready for battle, Arjuna requested Krishna to place his chariot between them so that he might survey his opponents. He was bewildered by the scene before him, for he beheld on both sides, fathers and grandfathers, teachers and uncles, fathers-in-law, grandsons, relatives and comrades.

Confusion reigned in Arjuna's mind. Should he participate in this terrible carnage? Was it proper to destroy one's relatives for the sake of a kingdom and some pleasures? Would it not be much better for him to surrender everything in favour of his enemies and retire in peace? As these thoughts rushed into his mind, a feeling of despondency overtook Arjuna. He had no more enthusiasm to engage in this battle. Letting his bow slip from his hands, Arjuna could do nothing but turn to Lord Krishna for enlightenment and guidance.

Dhritarashtra Uvaacha:

*Dharmakshetre kurukshetre samavetaa yuyutsavah;
Maamakaah paandavaaschaiva kim akurvata sanjaya.*

Dhritarashtra said:

1. What did the sons of Pandu and also my people do when they had assembled together, eager for battle on the holy plain of Kurukshetra, O Sanjaya?

Sanjaya Uvaacha:

*Drishtwaa tu paandavaaneekam vyudham duryodhanastadaa;
Aachaaryam upasamgamyaa raajaa vachanam abraveet.*

Sanjaya said:

2. Having seen the army of the Pandavas drawn up in battle array, King Duryodhana then approached his teacher (Drona) and spoke these words.

*Pasyaitaam paanduputraanaam aachaarya mahateem chamoom;
Vyudhaam drupadaputrena tava sishyena dheemataa.*

3. "Behold, O Teacher! this mighty army of the sons of Pandu, arrayed by the son of Drupada, thy wise disciple.

*Atra sooraa maheshwaasaa bheemaarjunasamaa yudhi;
Yuyudhaano viraatascha drupadascha mahaarathah.*

4. "Here are heroes, mighty archers, equal in battle to Bhima and Arjuna, Yuyudhana, Virata and Drupada, of the great car (mighty warriors).

*Dhrishtaketus chekitanaah kaasiraaajascha veeryavaan;
Purujit kuntibhojascha saibyascha narapungavah*

5. "Drishtaketu, Chekitana and the valiant king of Kasi, Purujit, and Kuntibhoja and Saibya, the best of men.

*Yudhaamanyuscha vikraanta uttamaaujaascha veeryavaan;
Saubhadro draupadeyaascha sarva eva mahaarathaah*

6. "The strong Yudhamanyu and the brave Uttamaaujas, the son of Subhadra (Abhimanyu, the son of Subhadra and Arjuna), and the sons of Draupadi, all of great chariots (great heroes).

*Asmaakam tu visishtaa ye taan nibodha dwijottama;
Naayakaa mama sainyasya samjnartham taan braveemi te*

7. "Know also, O best among the twice-born, the names of those who are the most distinguished amongst ourselves, the leaders of my army! These I name to thee for thy information.

*Bhavaan bheeshmascha karnascha kripascha samitinjayah;
Aswatthaamaa vikarnascha saumadattis tathaiva cha*

8. "Thyself and Bhishma and Karna, and also Kripa, the victorious in war, Asvatthama, Vikarna, and also Jayadratha, the son of Somadatta.

*Anye cha bahavah sooraa madarthe tyaktajeevitaah;
Naanaasastrapraharanaah sarve yuddhavisaradaah*

9. "And also many other heroes who have given up their lives for my sake, armed with various weapons and missiles, all well skilled in battle.

*Aparyaptam tad asmaakam balam bheeshmabhirakshitam;
Paryaptam twidam etesham balam bheemaabhirakshitam.*

10. "This army of ours marshalled by Bhishma is insufficient, whereas that army of theirs, marshalled by Bhima, is sufficient.

*Ayaneshu cha sarveshu yathaabhaagam avasthitaah;
Bheeshmam evaabhirakshantu bhavantah sarva eva hi*

11. "Therefore, do ye all, stationed in your respective positions in the several divisions of the army, protect Bhishma alone."

*Tasya sanjanayan harsham kuruvridhdah pitaamahah;
Simhanaadam vinadyocchaih sankham dadhmau prataapavaan.*

12. His glorious grandsire (Bhishma), the oldest of the Kauravas, in order to cheer Duryodhana, now roared like a lion and blew his conch.

*Tatah sankhaascha bheryascha panavaanakagomukhaah;
Sahasaivaabhyahanyanta sa sabdastumulo 'bhavat.*

13. Then (following Bhishma), conches and kettledrums, tabors, drums and cow-horns blared forth quite suddenly (from the Kaurava side), and the sound was tremendous.

*Tatah svetair hayair yukte mahati syandane sthitau;
Maadhavah paandavaschaiva divyau sankhau pradadhmauh.*

14. Then also, Madhava (Krishna), and the son of Pandu (Arjuna), seated in their magnificent chariot yoked with white horses, blew their divine conches.

*Paanchajanyam hrishikeso devadattam dhananjayah;
Paundram dadhmau mahaasankham bheemakarma vrikodarah.*

15. Hrishikesa blew the "Panchajanya" and Arjuna blew the "Devadatta", and Bhima, the doer of terrible deeds, blew the great conch, "Paundra".

*Anantavijayam rajaa kunteeputro yudhishthirah;
Nakulah sahadevascha sughosamanipushpakau.*

16. King Yudhishthira, the son of Kunti, blew the "Anantavijaya"; Nakula and Sahadeva blew the "Sughosa" and the "Manipuspaka".

*Kaasyascha parameshwaasah sikhandee cha mahaarathah;
Dhrishtadyumno viraatascha saatyakischaaparaajitah.*

17. The king of Kasi, an excellent archer, Sikhandi, the mighty car-warrior, Dhrishtadyumna and Virata and Satyaki, the unconquered,

*Drupado draupadeyaascha sarvasah prithiveepate;
Saubhadrascha mahaabaahuh sankhaan dadhmuh prithak prithak.*

18. Drupada and the sons of Draupadi, O Lord of the earth! and the son of Subhadra, the mighty-armed, blew their respective conches.

*Sa ghosho dhaartaraashtraanaam hridayaani vyadaarayay;
Nabhascha prithiveem chaiva tumulo vyanunaadayan.*

19. That tumultuous sound rent the hearts of (the members of) Dhritarashtra's party, making both the heaven and the earth resound.

*Atha vyavasthitaan drishtwaa dhaartaraashtraan kapidhwajah;
Pravritte sastrasampaate dhanurudyamya paandavah.
Hrisheekesam tadaa vaakyamidamaaha maheepate;*

20. Then, seeing the people of Dhritarashtra's party standing arrayed, and the discharge of weapons about to begin, Arjuna, the son of Pandu, whose ensign was that of a monkey, took up his bow and said the following to Krishna, O lord of the earth!

Arjuna Uvaacha:

*Senayorubhayormadhye ratham sthaapaya me achyuta.
Yaavad etaan nireekshe'ham yoddhukaamaan avasthitaan;
Kair mayaa saha yodhavyam asmin ranasamudyame.*

Arjuna said:

21, 22. In the middle of the two armies, place my chariot, O Krishna! so that I may behold those who stand here, desirous to fight, and know with whom I must fight when the battle is about to commence.

*Yotsyamaanaan avekshe'ham ya ete'tra samaagataah;
Dhaartaraashtrasya durbuddher yuddhe priyachikeershavah.*

23. For I desire to observe those who are assembled here to fight, wishing to please in battle the evil-minded Duryodhana (the son of Dhritarashtra).

Sanjaya Uvaacha:

*Evamukto hrishikeso gudaakesena bharata;
Senayorubhayormadhye sthaapayitwa rathottamam.*

Sanjaya said:

24. Thus addressed by Arjuna, Krishna, having stationed that best of chariots, O Dhritarashtra, in the midst of the two armies,

*Bheeshmadronapramukhatah sarveshaam cha maheekshitaam;
Uvaacha paartha pasyaitaan samavetaan kuroon iti.*

25. In front of Bhishma and Drona and all the rulers of the earth, said, "O Arjuna (son of Pritha), behold these Kurus gathered together!"

*Tatraapasyat sthitaan paarthah pitrin atha pitaamahaan;
Aachaaryaan maatulaan bhraatrun putraan pautraan

26. Then Arjuna saw there (in the armies) stationed, fathers and grandfathers, teachers, maternal uncles, brothers, sons, grandsons and friends too.

*Svasuraan suhridaschaiva senayorubhayorapi;
Taan sameekshya sa kaunteyah sarvaan bandhoon avasthitaan.
Kripayaa parayaavishto visheedannidam abraveet;*

27. (He saw) fathers-in-law and friends also in both the armies. The son of Kunti, seeing all these kinsmen thus standing arrayed, spoke thus sorrowfully, filled with deep pity.

Arjuna Uvaacha:

Drishtwemam swajanam krishna yuyutsum samupasthitam

Arjuna said:

28. Seeing these, my kinsmen, O Krishna! arrayed, eager to fight,

*Seedanti mama gaatraani mukham cha parisushyati;
Vepathuscha sareere me romaharshascha jaayate.*

29. My limbs fail and my mouth is parched up, my body quivers and my hairs stand on end!

*Gaandeevam sransate hastaat twak chaiva paridahyate,
Na cha saknomyavasthaatum bhramateeva cha me manah.*

30. The (bow) Gandiva slips from my hand, and my skin burns all over; I am unable even to stand, and my mind is reeling, as it were.

*Nimittaani cha pasyaami vipareetaani kesava;
Na cha sreya'nupasyaami hatwaa swajanam aahave.*

31. And I see adverse omens, O Kesava! I do not see any good in killing my kinsmen in battle.

*Na kangkshe vijayam krishna na cha raajyam sukhaani cha
Kim na raajyena govinda kim bhogair jeevitena vaa.*

32. For I desire not victory, O Krishna! nor kingdom, nor pleasures. Of what avail is dominion to us, O Krishna! or pleasures or even life?

*Yeshaan arthe kaankshitam no raajyam bhogaah sukhaani cha;
Ta ime'vasthita yuddhe praanaamstyaktwaa dhanaani cha.*

33. Those for whose sake we desire kingdom, enjoyments and pleasures, stand here in battle, having renounced their lives and wealth.

*Aachaaryaah pitarah putraastathaiva cha pitaamahaah;
Maatulaah swasuraah pautraah syaalaah sambandhinas tathaa.*

34. Teachers, fathers, sons and also grandfathers, maternal uncles, fathers-in-law, grandsons, brothers-in-law and other relatives,—

*Etan na hantum icchaami ghnato'pimadhusoodana;
Api trailokyaraajyasya hetoh kim nu maheekrite.*

35. These I do not wish to kill, though they kill me, O Krishna! even for the sake of dominion over the three worlds, leave alone killing them for the sake of the earth!

*Nihatya dhaartaraashtraan nah kaa preetih syaat janaardana;

36. By killing these sons of Dhritarashtra, what pleasure can be ours, O Janardana? Only sin will accrue by killing these felons.

Tasmaannaarhaa vayam hantum dhaartaraashtraan swabaandhavaan;

Swajanam hi katham hatwaa sukhinah syaama maadhava.

37. Therefore, we should not kill the sons of Dhritarashtra, our relatives; for how can we be happy by killing our own people, O Madhava (Krishna)?

*Yadyapyete na pasyanti lobhopahatachetasah;
Kulakshayakritam dosham mitradrohe cha paatakam.*

38. Though they, with intelligence overpowered by greed, see no evil in the destruction of families, and no sin in hostility to friends,

*Katham na jneyam asmaabhih paapaad asmaan nivartitum;
Kulakshayaykritam dosham prapasyadbhir janaardana.*

39. Why should not we, who clearly see evil in the destruction of a family, learn to turn away from this sin, O Janardana (Krishna)?

Commentary: Ignorance of the law is no excuse and wanton sinful conduct is a crime unworthy of knowledgeable people.

*Kulakshaye pranasyanti kuladharmaah sanaatanaah;
Dharme nashte kulam kritnam adharmo'bhibhavatyuta.*

40. In the destruction of a family, the immemorial religious rites of that family perish; on the destruction of spirituality, impiety overcomes the whole family.

*Adharmaabhibhavaat krishna pradushyanti kulastriyah;
Streeshu dushtaasu vaarshneya jaayate varnasankarah.*

41. By prevalence of impiety, O Krishna! the women of the family become corrupt, and women being corrupted, O Varsneya! (descendent of Vrishni), there arises intermingling of castes.

Sankaro narakaayaiva kulaghnaanaam kulasya cha;

Patanti pitaro hyesham buntanindodakakriyaaah.

First Discourse

42. Confusion of castes leads to hell the slayers of the family, for their forefathers fall, deprived of the offerings of rice ball and water (libations).

*Doshairetaih kulaghnaanaam varnasankarakaarakaih;
Utsaadyante jaatidharmaah kuladharmascha saaswataah.*

43. By these evil deeds of the destroyers of the family, which cause confusion of castes, the eternal religious rites of the caste and family are destroyed.

*Utsannakuladharmascha manushyaanaam janaardana;
Narake'niyatam vaaso bhavateetyanususruma.*

44. We have heard, O Janardana! that inevitable is the dwelling for an unknown period in hell for those men in whose families the religious practices have been destroyed.

*Aho bata mahat paapam kartum vyavasitaa vayam;
Yadrajyasukhalobhena hantum swajanam udyataah.*

45. Alas! we are involved in a great sin in that we are prepared to kill our own kinsmen through greed for the pleasures of a kingdom.

*Yadi maam aprateekaaram asastram sastrapaanayah;
Dhaartaraashtraa rane hanyus taanme kshemataram bhavet.*

46. If the sons of Dhritarashtra, with weapons in hand, should slay me in battle, unresisting and unarmed, that would be better for me.

Sanjaya Uvaacha:

*Evamuktwaarjunah sankhye rathopastha upaavisat;
Visrijiya sasaram chaapam sokasamvignamaanasah.*

Sanjaya said:

47. Having thus spoken in the midst of the battlefield, Arjuna, casting away his bow and arrow, sat down on the seat of the chariot with his mind overwhelmed with sorrow.

Thus in the Upanishads of the glorious Bhagavad Gita, the science of the Eternal, the scripture of Yoga, the dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna, ends the first discourse entitled:

The Yoga of the Despondency of Arjuna

Summary of Second Discourse

Sanjaya explains the condition of Arjuna, who was agitated due to attachment and fear.

Lord Krishna rebukes him for his dejection, which was due to Moha or attachment, and exhorts him to fight. After failing to convince Sri Krishna through his seemingly wise thoughts, Arjuna realises his helplessness and surrenders himself completely to the Lord, seeking His guidance to get over the conflict of his mind.

The Lord takes pity on him and proceeds to enlighten him by various means. He explains to Arjuna the imperishable nature of the Atman, for which there is no past, present and future. The Atman never dies, therefore Arjuna should not grieve. As It transcends the five elements, namely, earth, water, fire, air and ether, It cannot be cut, burnt or dried. It is unchanging and eternal.

Everyone experiences pleasure and pain, heat and cold, due to contact of objects with the senses. The senses carry the sensations through the nerves to the mind. One should be able to withdraw the senses from objects, like the tortoise which withdraws all its limbs within. Krishna asserts that only one who has the capacity to be balanced in pleasure and pain alike is fit for immortality.

Krishna goes on to tell Arjuna that if he refuses to fight and flees from the battle, people will be justified in condemning such action as unworthy of a warrior.

Having taught Arjuna the immortal nature of the Atman, Lord Krishna turns to the performance of action without the expectation of fruit. A man should not concern himself about the fruit of the action, like gain and loss, victory and defeat. These are in the hands of the Lord. He should perform all action with a balanced mind, calmly enduring the pairs of opposites like heat and cold, pleasure and pain, that inevitably manifest during action. Krishna advises Arjuna to fight, free from desire for acquisition of kingdom or preservation of it.

Arjuna is eager to know the characteristics of a man who has a stable mind. Such a person, Krishna tells him, will have no desires at all. Since he is content within, having realised the Self, he is entirely free from desires. The consciousness of the Atman and abandonment of desires are simultaneous experiences. The various qualities of a Sthitaprajna (a stable-minded person) are described by the Lord. He will not be affected by adversity and will have no fear or anger. He will take things as they come, and will not have any likes and dislikes. He will neither hug the world nor hate it.

The man of stable mind will have perfect control of the senses. The senses are powerful and draw the mind outwards. One should therefore turn one's gaze within and realise God who resides in the heart. The Yogi, having achieved a stable mind, remains steadfast even though all sense-objects come to him. He is unmoved and lives a life of eternal peace.

Krishna concludes that the eternal Brahmic state frees one from delusion forever. Even at the end of life, when one departs from this body, one does not lose consciousness of one's identity with Brahman.

2 Sankhya Yoga

---

Sanjaya Uvaacha:

*Tam tathaa kripayaavishtam asrupoornaakulekshanam;
Visheedantam idam vaakyam uvaacha madhusudana.*

Sanjaya said:

1. To him who was thus overcome with pity and who was despondent, with eyes full of tears and agitated, Madhusudhana (the destroyer of Madhu) or Krishna, spoke these words.

Sri Bhagavan Uvaacha:

*Kutastwaa kasmalam idam vishame samupasthitam;
Anaaryajushtam aswargyam akeertikaram arjuna.*

The Blessed Lord said:

2. Whence is this perilous strait come upon thee, this dejection which is unworthy of you, disgraceful, and which will close the gates of heaven upon you, O Arjuna?

*Klaibyam maa sma gamah partha naitat twayyupapadyate;
Kshudram hridayadaurbalyam tyaktwottishtha paramtapa.*

3. Yield not to impotence, O Arjuna! son of Pritha. It does not befit thee. Cast off this mean weakness of the heart. Stand up, O scorcher of foes!

Arjuna Uvaacha:

*Katham bhishmam aham sankhye dronam cha madhusudana;
Ishubhih prativotsyaami poojaarhaavarisudana.*

Arjuna said:

4. How, O Madhusudana! shall I fight in battle with arrows against Bhishma and Drona, who are fit to be worshipped, O destroyer of enemies?

*Guroon ahatwaa hi mahaanubhaavaan
Sreyo bhoktum bhaikshyam apeeha loke;
Hatwaarthakaamaamstu guroon ihaiva
Bhunjeeya bhogaan rudhirapradigdhaan.*

5. Better it is, indeed, in this world to accept alms than to slay the most noble teachers. But if I kill them, even in this world all my enjoyments of wealth and desires will be stained with (their) blood.

*Na chaitad vidmah kataranno gareeyo
Yadwaa jayema yadi vaa no jayeyuh;
Yaan eva hatwaa na jijeevishaamas
Te'vasthitaah pramukhe dhaartaraashtraah.*

6. I can hardly tell which is better, that we should conquer them or they should conquer us. Even the sons of Dhritarashtra, after slaying whom we do not wish to live, stand facing us.

*Kaarpanyadoshopahataswabhaavah
Pricchaami twaam dharmasammudhachetaah;
Yacchreyah syaannischitam broohi tanme

7. My heart is overpowered by the taint of pity, my mind is confused as to duty. I ask Thee, tell me decisively what is good for me. I am Thy disciple. Instruct me who has taken refuge in Thee.

*Nahi prapasyaami mamaapanudyaat
Yacchokam ucchoshanam indriyaanam;*

*Avaapya bhoomaavasapatnamriddham
Raajyam suraanaam api chaadhipatyam.*

8. I do not see that it would remove this sorrow that burns up my senses even if I should attain prosperous and unrivalled dominion on earth or lordship over the gods.

Sanjaya Uvaacha:

*Evam uktwaa hrisheekesam gudaakesah parantapah;
Na yotsya iti govindam uktwaa tooshneem babhoova ha*

Sanjaya said:

9. Having spoken thus to Hrishikesa (the Lord of the senses), Arjuna (the conqueror of sleep), the destroyer of foes, said to Krishna, "I will not fight," and became silent.

*Tam uvaacha hrisheekesah prahasanniva bhaarata;
Senayor ubhaya madhye visheedantam idam vachah.*

10. To him who was despondent in the midst of the two armies, Krishna, as if smiling, O Bharata! spoke these words.

Sri Bhagavan Uvaacha:

*Asochyaan anvasochastwam prajnavadaamscha bhaashase;
Gataasoon agataasoomscha naanusochanti panditaah.*

The Blessed Lord said:

11. Thou hast grieved for those that should not be grieved for, yet thou speakest words of wisdom. The wise grieve neither for the living nor for the dead.

*Na tvevaaham jaatu naasam na twam neme janaadhipaah;
Nachaiwa na bhavishyaamah sarve vayam atah param.*

12. Nor at any time indeed was I not, nor these rulers of men, nor verily shall we ever cease to be hereafter.

*Dehino'smin yathaa dehe kaumaaram yauvanam jaraa;
Tatha dehaantarapraaptir dheeras tatra na muhyati*

13. Just as in this body the embodied (soul) passes into childhood, youth and old age, so also does he pass into another body; the firm man does not grieve thereat.

*Maatraasparsaastu kaunteya seetoshnasukhaduhkhadah;
Aagamaapaayino'nityaas taamstitikshaswa bhaarata*

14. The contacts of the senses with the objects, O son of Kunti! which cause heat and cold, pleasure and pain, have a beginning and an end; they are impermanent; endure them bravely, O Arjuna!

*Yam hi na vyathayantyete purusham purusharshabha;
Samaduhkhasukham dheeram soamrutatwaaya kalpate*

15. That firm man whom, surely, these afflict not, O chief among men! to whom pleasure and pain are the same, is fit for attaining immortality.

*Naasato vidyate bhaavo naabhaavo vidyate satah;
Ubhayorapi drishtontastwanayos tattwadarshibhih*

16. The unreal hath no being; there is no non-being of the Real; the truth about both has been seen by the knowers of the Truth (or the seers of the Essence).

Commentary: What is changing must be unreal. What is constant or permanent must be real. The Atman or Self always exists. It is the only Reality. This phenomenal world of names and forms is ever changing. Hence it is unreal.

*Avinaashi tu tad viddhi yena sarvam idam tatam;
Vinaasam avyayaasya na kaschit kartum arhati*

17. Know That to be indestructible, by whom all this is pervaded. None can cause the destruction of That, the Imperishable.

Commentary: The Atman pervades all the objects like ether. Even if the pot is broken, the ether that is within and without the pot cannot be lost or destroyed. Even so, if the bodies and all other objects perish, the Self or Atman that pervades them cannot perish. It is the living Truth.

*Antavanta ime dehaa nityasyoktaah sareerinah;
Anaasino'prameyasya tasmad yudhyaswa bhaarata.*

18. These bodies of the embodied Self, who is eternal, indestructible and immeasurable, are said to have an end. Therefore fight, O Arjuna!

*Ya enam vetti hantaaram yaschainam manyate hatam;
Ubhau tau na vijaaneeto naayam hanti na hanyate.*

19. He who takes the Self to be the slayer and he who thinks that He is slain, neither of them knows; He slays not nor is He slain.

Commentary: The Self is non-doer. As He is immutable, He is neither the agent nor the object of the act of slaying.

*Na jaayate mriyate vaa kadaachit
Naayam bhootwaa bhavita vaa na bhooyah;
Ajo nityah saaswato'yam puraano
Na hanyate hanyamaane sareere.*

20. He is not born nor does He ever die; after having been, He again ceases not to be. Unborn, eternal, changeless and ancient, He is not killed when the body is killed.

*Vedaavinaasinam nityam ya enam ajam avyayam;
Katham sa purushah paartha kam ghaatayati hanti kam.*

21. Whosoever knows Him to be indestructible, eternal, unborn and inexhaustible, how can that man slay, O Arjuna! or cause to be slain?

*Vaasaamsi jeernaani yatha vihaaya
Navaani grihnaati naro'paraani;
Tathaa sareeraani vihaaya jeernaa
Nyanyaani samyaati navaani dehee.*

22. Just as a man casts off worn-out clothes and puts on new ones, so also the embodied Self casts off worn-out bodies and enters others that are new.

*Nainam cchindanti sastraani nainam dahati paavakah;
Na chainam kledayantyaapo na soshayati maarutah.*

23. Weapons cut It not, fire burns It not, water wets It not, wind dries It not.

Commentary: The Self has no parts. It is extremely subtle. It is infinite. Therefore, the sword cannot cut It, fire cannot burn It, wind cannot dry It.

*Acchedyo'yam adaahyo'yam akledyo' soshya eva cha;
Nityah sarvagatah sthaamur achaloyam sanaatanah.*

24. This Self cannot be cut, burnt, wetted or dried up. It is eternal, all-pervading, stable, ancient and immovable.

*Avyakto'yam achintyo'yamavikaaryo'yam uchyate;
Tasmaad evam viditwainam naanusochitum arhasi.*

25. This (Self) is said to be unmanifested, unthinkable and unchangeable. Therefore, knowing This to be such, thou shouldst not grieve.

*Atha chainam nityajaatam nityam vaa manyase mritam;
Tathapi twam mahaabaaho naivam sochitum arhasi.*

26. But even if thou thinkest of It as being constantly born and constantly dying, even then, O mighty-armed! thou shouldst not grieve.

Commentary: Birth is inevitable to what is dead and death is inevitable to what is born. This is the law of Nature. Therefore one should not grieve.

*Jaatasya hi dhruvo mrityur dhruvam janma mritasya cha;
Tasmaad aparahaarye'rthe na twam sochitum arhasi.*

27. For, certain is death for the born and certain is birth for the dead; therefore, over the inevitable thou shouldst not grieve.

*Avyaktaadeeni bhootaani vyaktamadhyaani bhaarata;
Avyakta nidhanaanyeva tatra kaa paridevanaa.*

28. Beings are unmanifest in their beginning, manifest in their middle state, O Arjuna! and unmanifest again in their end. What is there to grieve about?

Commentary: The physical body is a combination of the five elements. It is seen only after the five elements have entered into such combination. After death the body disintegrates and the five elements return to their source; the body cannot then be seen. It is therefore visible only in the middle state.

*Aascharyavat pasyati kaschid enam
Aascharyavad vadati tathaiva chaanyah;
Aascharyavat chainam anyah srinoti
Srutwaapyenam veda na chaiva kaschit.*

29. One sees This (the Self) as a wonder; another speaks of It as a wonder; another hears of It as a wonder; yet, having heard, none understands It at all.

Commentary: The verse may also be interpreted in this manner: he that sees, hears and speaks of the Self is a wonderful man. Such a man is very rare. He is one among many thousands. Thus the Self is very hard to understand.

Dehee nityam avadhyo'yam dehe sarvasya bhaarata; Tasmaat sarvaani bhootaani na twam sochitum arhasi.

30. This, the Indweller in the body of everyone, is ever indestructible, O Arjuna! Therefore, thou shouldst not grieve for any creature.

*Swadharmam api chaavekshya na vikampitum arhasi;
Dharmyaaddhi yuddhaacchreyo'nyat kshatriyasya na vidyate.*

31. Further, having regard to thy duty, thou shouldst not waver, for there is nothing higher for a Kshatriya than a righteous war.

Commentary: To a Kshatriya (one born in the warrior or ruling class) nothing is more welcome than a righteous war. It is his duty to fight in such a war.

*Yadricchayya chopapannam swargadwaaram apaavritam;
Sukhinah kshatriyaah paartha labhante yuddham eedrisam.*

32. Happy are the Kshatriyas, O Arjuna! who are called upon to fight in such a battle, that comes of itself as an open door to heaven.

Commentary: The scriptures declare that if a Kshatriya dies for a righteous cause on the battlefield he immediately goes to heaven.

*Atha chet twam imam dharmyam samgraamam na karishyasi;
Tatah swadharmam keertim cha hitwaa paapam avaapsyasi.*

33. But if thou wilt not fight this righteous war, then, having abandoned thine own duty and fame, thou shalt incur sin.

*Akeertim chaapi bhootaani kathayishyanti te'vyayaam;

35. The great car-warriors will think that thou hast withdrawn from the battle through fear; and thou wilt be lightly held by them who have thought much of thee.

*Avaachyavaadaamscha bahuun vadishyanti tavaahitaah;

36. Thy enemies also, cavilling at thy power, will speak many abusive words. What is more painful than this!

*Hato vaa praapsyasi swargam jitwaa vaa bhokshyase maheem;
Tasmad uttishtha kaunteya uddhaaya kritanishchayah.*

37. Slain, thou wilt obtain heaven; victorious, thou wilt enjoy the earth; therefore, stand up, O son of Kunti! resolved to fight.

*Sukhaduhkhe same kritwaa laabhaalaabhau jayaajayau;
Tato uddhaaya yujyaswa naivam paapamavaapsyasi.*

38. Having made pleasure and pain, gain and loss, victory and defeat the same, engage thou in battle for the sake of battle; thus thou shalt not incur sin.

*Eshaa te'bhihitaa saankhye buddhir yoge twimaam srunu;
Budhyaa yukto yayaa paartha karmabandham prahaasyasi.*

39. This which has been taught to thee, is wisdom concerning Sankhya. Now listen to wisdom concerning Yoga, endowed with which, O Arjuna! thou shalt cast off the bonds of action.

*Nehaabhikramanaaso'sti pratyavaayo na vidyate;
Swalpam apyasya dharmasya traayate mahato bhayaat.*

40. In this there is no loss of effort, nor is there any harm (production of contrary results or transgression). Even a little of this knowledge (even a little practice of this Yoga) protects one from great fear.

Commentary: In Karma Yoga (selfless action) even a little effort brings immediate purification of the heart. Purification of the heart leads to fearlessness.

*Vyavaasaayaatmikaa buddhir ekeha kurunandana;
Bahusaakhaa hyanantaascha buddhayo'vyavaasaayinaam.*

41. Here, O joy of the Kurus! there is but a single one-pointed determination; many-branched and endless are the thoughts of the irresolute.

*Yaam imaam pushpitaam vaacham pravadantyavipaschitah;
Vedavaadarataah paartha naanyad asteeti vaadinah.*

42. Flowery speech is uttered by the unwise, taking pleasure in the eulogising words of the Vedas, O Arjuna! saying: "There is nothing else."

Commentary: Unwise people lay great stress upon the ritualistic portion of the Vedas which lay down specific rules for specific actions for the attainment of specific fruits, and extol these actions unduly.

*Kaamaatmaanah swargaparaa janmakarmaphalapradaam;
Kriyaavisheshabahulaam bhogaiswaryagatim prati*

43. Full of desires, having heaven as their goal, they utter speech which promises birth as the reward of actions, and prescribe various specific actions for the attainment of pleasure and power.

*Bhogaiswaryaprasaktaanaam tayaapahritachetasaam;
Vyavaasaayaatmikaa buddhih samaadhau na vidheeyate.*

44. For those who are attached to pleasure and power, whose minds are drawn away by such teaching, that determinate reason is not formed which is steadily bent on meditation and Samadhi (the state of Superconsciousness).

*Traigunyavishayaa vedaa nistraigunyo bhavaarjuna;
Nirdwandwo nityasatwastho niryogakshema aatmavaan.*

45. The Vedas deal with the three attributes (of Nature); be thou above these three attributes. O Arjuna! free yourself from the pairs of opposites and ever remain in the quality of Sattwa (goodness), freed from (the thought of) acquisition and preservation, and be established in the Self.

Commentary: By Guna is meant attribute. Nature is made up of three Gunas—Sattwa (purity), Rajas (passion) and Tamas (inertia). The pairs of opposites are heat and cold, pleasure and pain, etc.

*Yaavaanartha udapaane sarvatah samplutodake;
Taavaan sarveshu vedeshu braahmanasya vijaanatah.*

46. To the Brahmana who has known the Self, all the Vedas are of as much use as is a reservoir of water in a place where there is a flood.

Commentary: Only for a sage who has realised the Self are the Vedas of no use, because he is in possession of the infinite knowledge of the Self. This does not, however, mean that the Vedas are useless. They are useful for the neophytes.

*Karmanyevaadhikaaraste maa phaleshu kadaachana;
Maa karmaphalahetur bhoor maa te sangostwakarmani.*

47. Thy right is to work only, but never with its fruits; let not the fruits of actions be thy motive, nor let thy attachment be to inaction.

Commentary: Actions done with expectation of fruits (rewards) bring bondage. If you do not thirst for them, you get purification of heart and ultimately knowledge of the Self.

*Yogasthah kuru karmaani sangam tyaktwaa dhananjaya;
Siddhyasiddhyoh samo bhootwaa samatwam yoga uchyate.*

48. Perform action, O Arjuna! being steadfast in Yoga, abandoning attachment and balanced in success and failure. Evenness of mind is called Yoga.

*Doorena hyavaram karma buddhiyogaad dhananjaya;
Buddhau saranamanwiccha kripanaah phalahetavah.*

49. Far lower than the Yoga of wisdom, is action, O Arjuna! Seek thou refuge in wisdom; wretched are they whose motive is the fruit.

Commentary: Action done with evenness of mind is Yoga of wisdom. Action performed by one who expects fruits for his actions, is far inferior to the Yoga of wisdom wherein the seeker does not seek fruits.

*Buddhiyukto jahaateeha ubhe sukritadushkrite;
Tasmaad yogaaya yujyaswa yogah karmasu kausalam.*

50. Endowed with wisdom (evenness of mind), one casts off in this life both good and evil deeds; therefore, devote thyself to Yoga; Yoga is skill in action.

Commentary: Actions which are of a binding nature lose that nature when performed with equanimity of mind.

*Karmajam buddhiyaktaa hi phalam tyakwaa maneeshinah;
Janmabandhavinirmuktaah padam gacchantyanaamayam.*

51. The wise, possessed of knowledge, having abandoned the fruits of their actions, and being freed from the fetters of birth, go to the place which is beyond all evil.

Commentary: Clinging to the fruits of actions is the cause of rebirth. Man has to take a body to enjoy or suffer the consequences of such fruits. If actions are performed for the sake of God in fulfilment of His purpose, without desire for the fruits, one is released from the bonds of birth and death and attains the vision of God.

Commentary: The mire of delusion is identification of the Self with the body and mind.

53. When thy intellect, perplexed by what thou hast heard, stands immovable and steady in the Self, then thou shalt attain Self-realisation.

Arjuna Uvaacha:

Sthitadheeh kim prabhaasheta kimaaseeta vrajeta kim.*

Arjuna said:

54. What, O Krishna! is the description of him who has steady wisdom and is merged in the Superconscious State? How does one of steady wisdom speak, how does he sit, how does he walk?

Sri Bhagavan Uvaacha:

*Prajahaati yadaa kaamaan sarvaan partha manogataan;

The Blessed Lord said:

55. When a man casts off completely, O Arjuna! all the desires of the mind and is satisfied in the Self by the Self, then is he said to be one of steady wisdom.

*Duhkeshwanudwignamanaah sukheshu vigatasprihaah;

62. When a man thinks of the objects, attachment to the objects arises; from attachment desire is born; from desire anger arises.

*Krodhad bhavati sammohah sammohaat smritivibhramah;

63. From anger comes delusion; from delusion the loss of memory; from loss of memory the destruction of discrimination; from the destruction of discrimination he perishes.

*Raagadweshaviyuktaistu vishayaanindriyaischaran;

64. But the self-controlled man, moving amongst objects with the senses under restraint, and free from attraction and repulsion, attains to peace.

*Prasaade sarvaduḥkhaanaam haanir asyopajaayate;
Prasannachetaso hyaasu buddhiḥ paryavatiṣṭhate.*

65. In that peace all pains are destroyed, for the intellect of the tranquil-minded soon becomes steady.

*Naasti buddhiḥ ayuktasya na chaayuktasya bhaavanaa;
Na chaabhaavayataḥ saantir asaantasya kutah sukham.*

66. There is no knowledge of the Self to the unsteady, and to the unsteady no meditation is possible, and to the unmeditative there can be no peace; and to the man who has no peace, how can there be happiness?

*Indriyaanaam hi charataam yaṁmano'nuvidheeyate;
Tadasya harati prajnaam vaayur naavam ivaambhasi.*

67. For the mind, which follows in the wake of the wandering senses, carries away his discrimination, as the wind (carries away) a boat on the waters.

*Tasmaad yasya mahaabaaho nigriheetaani saravasah;
Indriyaaneedriyaarthebhyas tasya prajnaa pratishthitaa.*

68. Therefore, O mighty-armed Arjuna! his knowledge is steady whose senses are completely restrained from sense-objects.

*Yaanisaa sarvabhootaanaam tasyaam jaagarti samyamee;
Yasyaam jaagrati bhootaani saa nisaa pasyato muneh.*

69. That which is night to all beings, then the self-controlled man is 'awake'; when all beings are awake, that is night for the Muni (sage) who sees.

Commentary: That which is real to the worldly-minded people is an illusion to the sage, and vice versa.

*Aapooryamaanam achalapratishtham
Samudram aapah pravisanti yadwat;
Tadwat kaamaa yam pravisanti sarve
Sa saantim aapnoti na kaamakaami.*

70. He attains peace into whom all desires enter as waters enter the ocean, which, filled from all sides, remains unmoved; but not the man who is full of desires.

*Vihaaya kaamaan yah sarvaan pumaamscharati nispriah;
Nirmamo nirahankaarah sa saantim adhigacchati.*

71. The man attains peace, who, abandoning all desires, moves about without longing, without the sense of mine and without egoism.

*Eshaa braahmee sthitih paartha nainaam praapya vimuhyati;
Sthitwaasyaamantakaalepi brahmanirvaanamricchati.*

72. This is the Brahmic seat (eternal state), O son of Pritha! Attaining to this, one is never deluded. Being established therein, even at the end of life one attains to oneness with Brahman.

Thus in the Upanishads of the glorious Bhagavad Gita, the science of the Eternal, the scripture of Yoga, the dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna, ends the second discourse entitled:

The Sankhya Yoga

Summary of Third Discourse

---

In order to remove Moha or attachment, which was the sole cause of Arjuna's delusion, Sri Krishna taught him the imperishable nature of the Atman, the realisation of which would grant him the freedom of the Eternal. A doubt therefore arises in Arjuna's mind as to the necessity of engaging in action even after one has attained this state.

Sri Krishna clears this doubt by telling him that although one has realised his oneness with the Eternal, one has to perform action through the force of Prakriti or Nature. He emphasises that perfection is attained not by ceasing to engage in action but by doing all actions as a divine offering, imbued with a spirit of non-attachment and sacrifice.

The man of God-vision, Sri Krishna explains to Arjuna, need not engage in action, as he has attained everything that has to be attained. He can be ever absorbed in the calm and immutable Self. But to perform action for the good of the world and for the education of the masses is no doubt superior. Therefore, action is necessary not only for one who has attained perfection but also for one who is striving for perfection. Sri Krishna quotes the example of Raja Janaka, the great sage-king of India, who continued to rule his kingdom even after attaining God-realisation.

Prakriti or Nature is made up of the three qualities—Rajas, Tamas and Sattwa. The Atman is beyond these three qualities and their functions. Only when knowledge of this fact dawns in man does he attain perfection.

The Lord tells Arjuna that each one should do his duty according to his nature or temperament, and that doing duty that is suited to one's inherent nature in the right spirit of detachment and devotion will lead to perfection and freedom.

Arjuna raises the question as to why man commits such actions that cloud his mind and drag him downwards, by force, as it were. Sri Krishna answers that it is desire that impels man to lose his discrimination and understanding, and thus commit wrong actions. Desire is the root cause of all evil actions. If desire is removed, then the divine power manifests in its full glory and one enjoys peace, bliss, light and freedom.

The Yoga<sup>3</sup> of Action

Arjuna Uvaacha:

*Jyaayasee chet karmanaste mataa buddhir janaardana;
Tat kim karmani ghore maam niyojayasi keshava.*

Arjuna said:

1. If it be thought by Thee that knowledge is superior to action, O Krishna! why then, O Kesava! dost Thou ask me to engage in this terrible action?

*Vyaamisrenaiva vaakyena buddhim mohayaseeva me;
Tat ekam vada nischitya yena sreya'ham aapnuyaam.*

2. With these apparently perplexing words Thou confusest, as it were, my understanding; therefore tell me that one way for certain by which I may attain bliss.

Sri Bhagavan Uvaacha:

*Loke'smin dwividhaa nishthaa -uraa proktaa mayaanagha;
Jnaanayogena saankhyaanaam karmayogena yoginaam.*

The Blessed Lord said:

3. In this world there is a twofold path, as I said before, O sinless one!—the path of knowledge of the Sankhyas and the path of action of the Yogis.

*Na karmanaam anaarambhaannaishkarmyam purusho'snute;
Na cha karmasamudaya'pishkino'smaadhyagachari*

4. Not by non-performance of actions does man reach actionlessness, nor by mere renunciation does he attain to perfection.

Commentary: Even if a man abandons action, his mind may be active. One cannot reach perfection merely by renouncing action. He must possess knowledge of the Self.

*Na hi kaschit kshanamapi jaatu tishthatyakarmakrit;
Kaaryate hyavasah karma sarvah prakritijair gunaih.*

5. Verily none can ever remain for even a moment without performing action; for everyone is made to act helplessly indeed by the qualities born of Nature.

Commentary: The ignorant man is driven to action helplessly by the actions of the Gunas—Rajas, Tamas and Sattwa.

*Karmendriyaani samyamya ya aaste manasaa smaran;
Indriyaarthaan vimoodhaatmaa mithyaachaarah sa uchyate.*

6. He who, restraining the organs of action, sits thinking of the sense-objects in mind, he, of deluded understanding, is called a hypocrite.

*Yastwindriyaani manasaa niyamyaarabhate'rjuna;
Karmendriyaih karmayogam asaktah sa visishyate.*

7. But whosoever, controlling the senses by the mind, O Arjuna! engages himself in Karma Yoga with the organs of action, without attachment, he excels.

*Niyatam kuru karma twam karma jyaayo hyakarmanah;
Sareerayaatraapi cha te na prasiddhyed akarmanah.*

8. Do thou perform (thy) bounden duty, for action is superior to inaction, and even the maintenance of the body would not be possible for thee by inaction.

*Yajnaarthaat karmano'nyatra loko'yam karmabandhanah;
Tadartham karma kaunteya muktasangah samaachara.*

9. The world is bound by actions other than those performed for the sake of sacrifice; do thou, therefore, O son of Kunti! (Arjuna), perform action for that sake (for sacrifice alone), free from attachment.

Commentary: When actions are done for the sake of the Lord, one's heart is purified and one is not bound. When this spirit of unselfishness does not govern the action, it binds one to the world, however good or glorious the action may be.

*Sahayajnaah prajaah srishtwaa purovaacha prajaapatih;
Anena prasavishyadhwam esha vo'stvishtakaamadruk.*

10. The Creator, having in the beginning (of creation) created mankind together with sacrifice, said, "By this shall ye propagate; let this be the milch cow of your desires (the cow which yields the desired objects)."

*Devaan bhaavayataanena te devaa bhaavayantu vah;
Parasparam bhaavayantah sreyah param avaapsyatha*

11. With this do ye nourish the gods, and may those gods nourish you; thus nourishing one another, ye shall attain to the highest good.

*Ishtaan bhogaan hi vo devaa daasyante yajnabhaavitaah;
Tair dattaan apradaayaibhyo yo bhunkte stena eva sah.*

12. The gods, nourished by the sacrifice, will give you the desired objects. So, he who enjoys the objects given by the gods without offering (in return) to them, is verily a thief.

*Yajnasishhtaasinah santo muchyante sarvakilbishaih;
Bhunjate te twagham paapaa ye pachantyaatmakaraanat.*

13. The righteous who eat of the remnants of the sacrifice are free of all sins; but those sinful ones who cook food (only) for their own sake, verily eat sin.

*Annaad bhavanti bhootaani parjanyaad annasambhavah;
Yajnad bhavati parjanyo yajnah karmasamudbhavah.*

14. From food come forth beings; from rain food is produced; from sacrifice arises rain, and sacrifice is born of action.

*Karma brahmodbhavam viddhi brahmaaksharasamudbhavam;
Tasmaat sarvagatam brahma nityam yajne pratishthitam.*

15. Know thou that action comes from Brahma, and Brahma comes from the Imperishable. Therefore the all-pervading (Brahma) ever rests in sacrifice.

*Evam pravartitam chakram naanuvartayateeha yah;
Aghaayur indriyaaraamo mogham paartha sa jeevati.*

16. He who does not follow here the wheel thus set revolving, who is of sinful life, rejoicing in the senses, he lives in vain, O Arjuna!

Commentary: He who does not follow the wheel by studying the Vedas and performing the sacrifices prescribed therein, but who indulges only in sensual pleasures, lives in vain.

*Yastwaatmaratir eva syaad aatmatriptascha maanavah;
Aatmanyeva cha santushtas tasya kaaryam na vidyate.*

17. But for that man who rejoices only in the Self, who is satisfied in the Self, and who is content in the Self alone, verily there is nothing to do.

*Naiva tasya kritenaartho naakriteneha kaschana;
Na chaasya sarvabhooteshu kaschidarthavyapaasrayah.*

18. For him there is no interest whatever in what is done or what is not done; nor does he depend on any being for any object.

Commentary: The sage who has realised the Self does not gain anything by doing action and does not lose anything by not engaging in any action.

*Tasmaad asaktah satatam kaaryam karma samaachara;
Asakto hyaacharan karma param aapnoti poorushah.*

19. Therefore, without attachment, do thou always perform action, which should be done; for, by performing action without attachment man reaches the Supreme.

*Karmanaiva hi samsiddhim aasthitaa janakaadayah;
Lokasangraham evaapi sampasyam kartum arhasi.*

20. Janaka and others attained perfection verily by action only; even with a view to the protection of the masses thou shouldst perform action.

*Yadyad aacharati sreshthas tattadevetaro janah;
Sa yat pramaanam kurute loka tad anuvartate.*

21. Whatsoever a great man does, that other men also do; whatever he sets up as a standard, that the world (mankind) follows.

*Na me paarthaasti kartavyam trishu lokeshu kinchana;
Naanavaaptam avaaptavyam varta eva cha karmani.*

22. There is nothing in the three worlds, O Arjuna! that should be done by Me, nor is there anything unattained that should be attained; yet I engage Myself in action.

*Yadi hyaham na varteyam jaatu karmanyatandritah;
Mama vartmaanuvartante manushyaah paartha sarvasah.*

23. For, should I not ever engage Myself in action, unwearied, men would in every way follow My path, O Arjuna!

*Utseedeyur ime lokaa na kuryaam karma ched aham;
Senkarsya cha kartaa syaam unahanyaam imaah prajaaah.*

24. These worlds would perish if I did not perform action; I should be the author of confusion of castes and destruction of these beings.

*Saktaah karmanyavidwaamso yathaa kurvanti bhaarata;
Kuryaad vidwaamstathaasaktas chikeershur lokasangraham.*

25. As the ignorant men act from attachment to action, O Bharata! (Arjuna), so should the wise act without attachment, wishing the welfare of the world.

*Na buddhibhedam janayed ajnaanaam karmasanginaam;
Joshayet sarvakarmaani vidwaan yuktah samaacharan.*

26. Let no wise man unsettle the minds of ignorant people who are attached to action; he should engage them in all actions, himself fulfilling them with devotion.

*Prakriteh kriyamaanaani gunaih karmaani sarvasah;
Ahamkaaravimoodhatmaa kartaaham iti manyate.*

27. All actions are wrought in all cases by the qualities of Nature only. He whose mind is deluded by egoism thinks, "I am the doer."

Commentary: Prakriti or Nature is that state in which the three Gunas—Sattwa, Rajas and Tamas—exist in a state of equilibrium. When this equilibrium is disturbed, creation begins, and the body, senses, mind, etc., are formed. The deluded man identifies himself with them instead of with the Self.

*Tattwavittu mahaabaaho gunakarmavibhaagayoh;
Gunaa guneshu vartanta iti matwaa na sajjate.*

28. But he who knows the truth, O mighty-armed! (Arjuna), about the divisions of the qualities and (their) functions, knowing that the Gunas as senses move amidst the Gunas as the sense-objects, is not attached.

*Prakriter gunasammudhaah sajjante gunakarmasu;
Taan akritsnavido mandaan kritsnavinna vichaalayet.*

29. Those deluded by the qualities of Nature are attached to the functions of the qualities. The man of perfect knowledge should not unsettle the foolish one who is of imperfect knowledge.

*Mayi sarvaani karmaani samnyasyaadhyaatmachetasaa;
Niraaseer niramamo bhootwa yudhyaswa vigatajwarah.*

30. Renouncing all actions in Me, with the mind centred in the Self, free from hope and egoism and from (mental) fever, do thou fight.

*Ye me matam idam nityam anutisthanti maanavaah;
Sraddhaavanto'nasooyanto muchyante te'pi karmabhih.*

31. Those men who constantly practise this teaching of Mine with faith and without cavilling, they too are freed from actions.

*Ye twetad abhyasooyanto naanutisthanti me matam;
Sarvajnaanavimoodhamstaana viddhi nashtaan achetasah.*

32. But those who carp at My teaching and do not practise it, deluded in all knowledge and devoid of discrimination, know them to be doomed to destruction.

*Sadrisam cheshtate swasyaah prakriter jnaanavaan api;
Prakritim yaanti bhootaani nigrahah kim karishyati.*

33. Even a wise man acts in accordance with his own nature; beings will follow Nature, what can restraint do?

Commentary: Only the ignorant man comes under the sway of his natural propensities. The seeker after Truth who constantly practises meditation, can easily control Nature.

*Indriasyendriyasyaarthe raagadweshauvyavasthitaui;
Tayor na vasam aagacchet tau hyasya paripanthinau.*

34. Attachment and aversion to the objects of the senses abide in the senses; let none come under their sway, for they are his foes.

*Sreyaan swadharma vigunah paradharmaat swamushthitaat;
Swadharma nidhanam sreya paradharmo bhayaavahah.*

35. Better is one's duty though devoid of merit than the duty of another well discharged. Better is death in one's duty; the duty of another is fraught with fear.

Arjuna Uvaacha:

*Atha kena prayukto'yam paapam charati poorushah;
Anicchannapi vaarshneya balaad iva niyojitah.*

Arjuna said:

36. But impelled by what does man commit sin, though against his wishes, O Krishna! constrained, as it were, by force?

Sri Bhagavan Uvaacha:

*Kaama esha krodha esha rajogunasamudbhavah;
Mahaasano mahaapaapmaa viddhyenam iha vairinam.*

The Blessed Lord said:

37. It is desire, it is anger born of the quality of Rajas, all-devouring and all-sinful; know this as the foe here (in this world).

*Dhoomenaavriyate vahnir yathaadarso malena cha;
Yatholbenaavrito garbhas tathaa tenedam aavritam.*

38. As fire is enveloped by smoke, as a mirror by dust, as an embryo by the amnion, so this is enveloped by that.

*Aavritam jnaanam etena jnaanino nityavairinaa;
Kaamaropena kaunteya dushpoorenaanalen cha*

39. O Arjuna! wisdom is enveloped by this constant enemy of the wise, in the form of desire, which is as unappeasable as fire.

*Indriyaani mano buddhir asyaadhishthaanam uchyaate;
Etair vimohayatesha jnaanam aavritya dehinam.*

40. The senses, the mind and the intellect are said to be its seat; through these it deludes the embodied by veiling his wisdom.

*Tasmaat twam indriyaanyaadau niyamy bharatarshabha;
Paapmaanam prajahi hyenam jnaanavijnaananaasanam.*

41. Therefore, O best of the Bharatas! (Arjuna), controlling the senses first, do thou kill this sinful thing, the destroyer of knowledge and realisation.

*Indriyaani paraanyaahur indriyebhyah param manah;
Manasastu paraa buddhir yo buddheh paratastu sah.*

42. They say that the senses are superior (to the body); superior to the senses is the mind; superior to the mind is the intellect; one who is superior even to the intellect is He (the Self).

*Evam buddheh param buddhwa samstabhyatmaanam aatmanaa;
Jahi satrum mahaabaaho kaararoopam duraasadam.*

43. Thus knowing Him who is superior to the intellect and restraining the self by the Self, slay thou, O mighty-armed Arjuna! the enemy in the form of desire, hard to conquer.

Commentary: Restrain the lower self by the higher Self. Subdue the lower mind by the higher mind. Desire can be conquered by the higher mind.

Third Discourse

Thus in the Upanishads of the glorious Bhagavad Gita, the science of the Eternal, the scripture of Yoga, the dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna, ends the third discourse entitled:

The Yoga of Action

Summary of Fourth Discourse

---

Lord Krishna declares that He is born from age to age, in order to raise man and take him to the Supreme. Whenever there is a prevalence of unrighteousness and the world is ruled by the forces of darkness, the Lord manifests Himself to destroy these adverse forces and to establish peace, order and harmony. Hence we see the appearance of the great saviours of the world.

What is the secret of Yogic action? This the Lord proceeds to explain to Arjuna. Even though one is not engaged in action, but if the mind is active with the idea of doership and egoism, then it is action in inaction. On the other hand, though engaged physically in intense action, if the idea of agency is absent, if one feels that Prakriti does everything, it is inaction in action. The liberated man is free from attachment and is always calm and serene though engaged in ceaseless action. He is unaffected by the pairs of opposites like joy and grief, success and failure.

One who has true union with the Lord is not subject to rebirth. He attains immortality. Such a union can only be achieved when one is free from attachment, fear and anger, being thoroughly purified by right knowledge. The Lord accepts the devotion of all, whatever path they may use to approach Him.

Various kinds of sacrifices are performed by those engaged in the path to God. Through the practice of these sacrifices the mind is purified and led Godward. Here also there must be the spirit of non-attachment to the fruits of actions.

Divine wisdom, according to Sri Krishna, should be sought at the feet of a liberated Guru, one who has realised the Truth.

The aspirant should approach such a realised sage in a spirit of humility and devotion. God Himself manifests in the heart of the Guru and instructs the disciple. Having understood the Truth from the Guru by direct experience the aspirant is no longer deluded by ignorance.

The liberated aspirant directly beholds the Self in all beings and all beings in the Self. He cognises through internal experience or intuition that all beings, from the Creator down to a blade of grass, exist in his own Self and also in God.

Arjuna is given the most heartening assurance that divine wisdom liberates even the most sinful. When knowledge of the Self dawns, all actions with their results are burnt by the fire of that knowledge, just as fuel is burnt by the fire. When there is no idea of egoism, when there is no desire for the fruits of one's actions, actions are no actions. They lose their potency.

In order to attain divine wisdom one must have supreme faith and devotion. Faith is therefore the most important qualification for a spiritual aspirant. The doubting mind is always lead astray from the right path. Faith ultimately confers divine knowledge, which removes ignorance once and for all.

Mere intellectual knowledge does not lead to liberation. It cannot grant one supreme peace. When one has achieved complete self-mastery and self-control, when one has intense faith and devotion, then true knowledge dawns within and one attains liberation and freedom from all sins and weaknesses.

The Lord concludes by emphasising that the soul that doubts goes to destruction. Without faith in oneself, in the scriptures and in the words of the preceptor, one cannot make any headway on the spiritual path. It is doubt that prevents one from engaging in spiritual Sadhana and realising the highest knowledge. By following the instructions of the Guru and through sincere service, one's doubts are rent asunder and divine knowledge manifests itself within. Spiritual progress then goes on at a rapid pace.

4 The Yoga of Wisdom

Sri Bhagavan Uvaacha:

*Imam vivaswate yogam proktavaan aham avyayam;
Vivaswaan manave praaha manur ikshwakave'braveet.*

The Blessed Lord said:

1. I taught this imperishable Yoga to Vivasvan; he told it to Manu; Manu proclaimed it to Ikshvaku.

*Evam paramparaapraaptam imam raajarshayo viduh;
Sa kaaleneha mahataa yogo nashtah parantapa.*

2. This, handed down thus in regular succession, the royal sages knew. This Yoga, by long lapse of time, has been lost here, O Parantapa (burner of foes)!

*Sa evaayam mayaa te'dya yogah proktah puraatanah;
Bhakto'si me sakhaa cheti rahasyam hyetad uttamam.*

3. That same ancient Yoga has been today taught to thee by Me, for thou art My devotee and friend; it is a supreme secret.

Arjuna Uvaacha:

*Aparam bhavato janma param janma vivaswatah;
Katham etadvijaaneeyaam twam aadau proktavaan iti.*

Arjuna said:

4. Later on was Thy birth, and prior to it was the birth of Vivasvan (the Sun); how am I to understand that Thou taughtest this Yoga in the beginning?

Sri Bhagavan Uvaacha:

*Bahooni me vyateetaani janmaani tava chaarjuna;
Taanyaham veda sarvaani na twam vettha parantapa.*

The Blessed Lord said:

5. Many births of Mine have passed, as well of thine, O Arjuna! I know them all but thou knowest not, O Parantapa (scorcher of foes)!

*Ajo'pi sannavyayaatmaa bhootaanaam eeswaro'pi san;
Prakritim swaam adhishthaaya sambhavaamyaatmamaayayaa.*

6. Though I am unborn, of imperishable nature, and though I am the Lord of all beings, yet, ruling over My own Nature, I am born by My own Maya.

*Yadaa yadaa hi dharmasya glaanir bhavati bhaarata;
Abhyutthanam adharmasya tadaatmaanam srijaamyaham.*

7. Whenever there is decline of righteousness, O Arjuna! and rise of unrighteousness, then I manifest Myself.

*Paritraanaaya saaddhunaam vinaasaaya cha dushkritaam;
Dharmasamsthaapanarthaya sambhavaami yuge yuge.*

8. For the protection of the good, for the destruction of the wicked and for the establishment of righteousness, I am born in every age.

*Janma karma cha me divyam evam yo vetti tattwatah;
Tyaktwa deham punarjanma naiti maameti so'arjuna.*

9. He who thus knows in true light My divine birth and action, after having abandoned his body, is not born again; he comes to Me, O Arjuna!

*Veetaraagabhayakrodhaa manmayaa maam upaasritaah;
Bahavo jaganatapaanah prasevanti me bhaktam bhavam*

10. Freed from attachment, fear and anger, absorbed in Me, taking refuge in Me, purified by the fire of knowledge, many have attained to My Being.

*Ye yatha maam prapadyante taamstathaiva bhajaamyaham;
Mama vartmaanuvartante manushyaah paartha sarvasah.*

11. In whatever way men approach Me, even so do I reward them; My path do men tread in all ways, O Arjuna!

*Kaankshantah karmanaam siddhim yajanta iha devataah;
Kshipram hi maanushe loke siddhir bhavati karmajaa.*

12. Those who long for success in action in this world sacrifice to the gods; because success is quickly attained by men through action.

*Chaaturvarnyam mayaa srishtam gunakarmavibhaagasah;
Tasya kartaaram api maam vidhyakartaaram avyayam.*

13. The fourfold caste has been created by Me according to the differentiation of Guna and Karma; though I am the author thereof, know Me as the non-doer and immutable.

Commentary: The four castes—Sudra, Vaisya, Kshatriya and Brahmana—are classified according to the differentiation of Guna and Karma. In a Brahmana, Sattwa predominates; in the Kshatriya, Rajas; in the Vaisya, Rajas and Tamas predominate; and in the Sudra, Tamas is more prevalent. Human temperaments and tendencies vary according to the Guna.

*Na maam karmaani limpanti na me karmaphale sprihaa;
Iti maam yo'bhijaanaati karmabhir na sa badhyate.*

14. Actions do not taint Me, nor have I a desire for the fruits of actions. He who knows Me thus is not bound by actions.

*Evam jnaatvaa kritam karma poorvair api mumukshubhih
Karma karmajaa tasmaat twam poorvaih poorvataram kritam.*

15. Having known this, the ancient seekers after freedom also performed actions; therefore do thou also perform actions as did the ancients in days of yore.

*Kim karma kim akarmeti kavayopyatra mohitaah;
Tat te karma pravakshyaami yajjnaatwaa mokshyase'subhaat.*

16. What is action? What is inaction? As to these even the wise are confused. Therefore I shall teach thee such action (the nature of action and inaction), by knowing which thou shalt be liberated from the evil of Samsara.

*Karmano hyapi boddhavyam boddhavyam cha vikarmanah;
Akarmanas cha boddhavyam gahanaa karmano gatih.*

17. For verily, the true nature of action (enjoined by the scriptures), should be known; also (that) of forbidden (or unlawful) action, and of inaction; hard to understand is the nature (path) of action.

*Karmanyakarma yah pasyed akarmani cha karma yah;
Sa buddhimaan manushyeshu sa yuktah kritsnakarmakrit.*

18. He who seeth inaction in action and action in inaction, he is wise among men; he is a Yogi and performer of all actions.

Commentary: It is the idea of agency, the idea of 'I am the doer' that binds man to Samsara. If this idea vanishes, action is no action at all. It will not bind one. This is inaction in action. But if a man sits quietly and thinks that he is the doer, he is ever doing actions. This is action in inaction.

*Yasya sarve samaarambhaah kaamasankalpavarjitaah;
Jnanagnidagdhakarmanam tam aahur panditam budhaah.*

19. He whose undertakings are all devoid of desires and (selfish) purposes and whose actions have been burnt by the fire of knowledge, him the wise call a sage.

CC-0. Aarya Vigyan Prakashan Foundation, Chandigarh

*Tyaktwaa karmaphalaasangam nityatripto niraasrayah;
Karmanyabhipravritto'pi naiva kinchit karoti sah.*

20. Having abandoned attachment to the fruits of the action, ever content, depending on nothing, he does not do anything though engaged in activity.

*Niraaseer yatachittatma tyaktasarvaparigraha;
Saareeram kevalam karma kurvannapnoti kilbisham.*

21. Without hope and with the mind and the self controlled, having abandoned all greed, doing mere bodily action, he incurs no sin.

*Yadricchaalaabhasantushto dwandwatito vimatsarah;
Samah siddhaavasiddhau cha kritwaapi na nibadhyate.*

22. Content with what comes to him without effort, free from the pairs of opposites and envy, even-minded in success and failure, though acting, he is not bound.

*Gatasangasya muktasya jnanaavasthitachetasah;
Yajnaayaacharatah karma samagram pravileeyate.*

23. To one who is devoid of attachment, who is liberated, whose mind is established in knowledge, who works for the sake of sacrifice (for the sake of God), the whole action is dissolved.

*Brahmarpanam brahma havir brahmagnau brahmanaa hutam;
Brahmaiva tena gantavyam brahmakarmasamaadhinaa.*

24. Brahman is the oblation; Brahman is the melted butter (ghee); by Brahman is the oblation poured into the fire of Brahman; Brahman verily shall be reached by him who always sees Brahman in action.

Commentary: This is Jnana-Yajna or wisdom-sacrifice, in which the idea of Brahman is substituted for the ideas of the instrument and other accessories of action, the idea of action itself and of its results.

*Daivam evaapare yajnam yoginah paryupaasate;
Brahmaagnavapare yajnam yajnenavopajuhwati*

25. Some Yogins perform sacrifice to the gods alone, while others (who have realised the Self) offer the Self as sacrifice by the Self in the fire of Brahman alone.

*Srotraadeenindriyaanyanye samyamaagnishu juhwati;
Sabdaadeen vishayaananya indriyaagnishu juhwati*

26. Some again offer hearing and other senses as sacrifice in the fire of restraint; others offer sound and various objects of the senses as sacrifice in the fire of the senses.

*Sarvaaneendriyakarmaani praanakarmaani chaapare;
Aatmasamyamayogaagnau juhwati jnaanadeepite.*

27. Others again sacrifice all the functions of the senses and those of the breath (vital energy or Prana) in the fire of the Yoga of self-restraint kindled by knowledge.

*Dravyayajnaas tapoyajnaa yogayajnaastathaapare;
Swaadhrayaayajnaanayajnaascha yatayah samsitavrataah.*

28. Some again offer wealth, austerity and Yoga as sacrifice, while ascetics of self-restraint and rigid vows offer study of scriptures and knowledge as sacrifice.

*Apaane juhwati praanam praane'paanam tathaapare;
Praanaapaanagatee ruddhwaa praanaayaamaaparaayanaah.*

29. Others offer as sacrifice the outgoing breath in the incoming, and the incoming in the outgoing, restraining the courses of the outgoing and the incoming, solely absorbed in the restraint of the breath.

Commentary: Some Yogis practise Pranayama, the science of breath regulation.

*Apare niyataahaaraah pranaan praaneshu juhwati;
Sarve'pyete yajnavido yajnakshapitakalmashaah.*

30. Others who regulate their diet offer life-breaths in life-breaths. All these are knowers of sacrifice.

*Yajnasishhtaamritabhujō yaanti brahma sanaatanam;
Naayam loko'styayajnyasya kuto'nyah kurusattama.*

31. Those who eat the remnants of the sacrifice, which are like nectar, go to the eternal Brahman. This world is not for the man who does not perform sacrifice; how then can he have the other, O Arjuna?

Commentary: He who does not perform any of these is not fit even for this miserable world. How then can he hope to get a better world than this?

*Evam bahuvidhaa yajnaa vitataa brahmano mukhe;
Karmajaan viddhi taan sarvaan evam jnaatwaa vimokshyase.*

32. Thus, manifold sacrifices are spread out before Brahman (literally at the mouth or face of Brahman). Know them all as born of action, and thus knowing, thou shalt be liberated.

*Sreyaan dravyamayaadyajnaat jnaanayajnah parantapa;
Sarvam karmaakhilam paartha jnaane parisamaapyate.*

33. Superior is wisdom-sacrifice to the sacrifice with objects, O Parantapa (harasser of foes)! All actions in their entirety, O Arjuna! culminate in knowledge.

*Tadviddhi pranipaatena pariprasnena sevayaa;
Upadekshyanti te jnaanam jnaaninas tattwadarsinah.*

34. Know that by long prostration, by question and by service, the wise who have realised the Truth will instruct thee in (that) knowledge.

*Yajjnaatwa na punarmoham evam yaasyasi paandava;
Yena bhootaanyaseshena drakshyasyaatmanyatho mayi*

35. Knowing that thou shalt not, O Arjuna! again get deluded like this; and by that thou shalt see all beings in thy Self and also in Me.

*Api chedasi paapebhyah sarvebhyah paapakrittamah;
Sarvam jnaanaplavenaiva vrijinam santarishyasi*

36. Even if thou art the most sinful of all sinners, yet thou shalt verily cross all sin by the raft of knowledge.

*Yathaidhaamsi samiddho'gnir bhasmasaat kurute'rjuna;
Jnaanaagnih sarvakarmaani bhasmasaat kurute tathaa*

37. As the blazing fire reduces fuel to ashes, O Arjuna! so does the fire of knowledge reduce all actions to ashes.

*Na hi jnaanena sadrisam pavitram iha vidyate;
Tat swayam yogasamsiddhah kaalenatmani vindati*

38. Verily, there is no purifier in this world like knowledge. He who is perfected in Yoga finds it in the Self in time.

*Sraddhaavaan labhate jnaanam tatparah samyatendriyah;
Jnaanam labdhvaa paraam shantimachirenaadhigacchati*

39. The man who is full of faith, who is devoted to it, and who has subdued the senses obtains (this) knowledge; and, having obtained the knowledge, he goes at once to the supreme peace.

*Ajnaschaasraddadhaanas cha samsayaatmaa vinasyati;
Naayam loko'sti na paro na sukham samsayaatmanah*

40. The ignorant, the faithless, the doubting self goes to destruction; there is neither this world nor the other nor happiness for the doubting.

*Yogasamnyastakarmaanam jnaanasamecchinnaamsayam;
Aatmavantam na karmaani nibadhnanti dhananjaya*

41. He who has renounced actions by Yoga, whose doubts are rent asunder by knowledge, and who is self-possessed—actions do not bind him, O Arjuna!

*Tasmaad ajnaanasambhootam hritstham jnaanaasinaatmanah;
Chhitwainam samsayam yogam aatishthottishtha bhaarata*

42. Therefore, with the sword of the knowledge (of the Self) cut asunder the doubt of the self born of ignorance, residing in thy heart, and take refuge in Yoga. Arise, O Arjuna!

Thus in the Upanishads of the glorious Bhagavad Gita, the science of the Eternal, the scripture of Yoga, the dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna, ends the fourth discourse entitled:

The Yoga of Wisdom

Summary of Fifth Discourse

In spite of Sri Krishna's clear instructions, Arjuna still seems to be bewildered. He wants to know conclusively which is superior, the path of action or the path of renunciation of action.

The Lord says that both the paths lead to the highest goal of God-realisation. In both cases the final realisation of the Atman is the aim, but the path of Karma Yoga is superior. Actually there is no real difference between the two.

Krishna further asserts that perfection can be attained and one can be established in the Atman only after the mind has been purified through the performance of selfless action. The Karma Yogi who is aware of the Atman and who is constantly engaged in action knows that although the intellect, mind and senses are active, he does not do anything. He is a spectator of everything. He dedicates all his actions to God and thus abandons attachment, always remaining pure and unaffected. He surrenders himself completely to the Divine Shakti. Having completely rooted out desire, attachment and the ego, he is not born again.

The sage who has realised Brahman and is always absorbed in It does not have any rebirth. Such a sage sees Brahman within and without—within as the static and transcendent Brahman, and without as the entire universe. He sees the one Self in all beings and creatures—in a cow, an elephant, and even in a dog and an outcaste. He is ever free from joy and grief and enjoys eternal peace and happiness. He does not depend upon the senses for his satisfaction. On the other hand the enjoyments of the senses are generators of pain. They are impermanent. Sri Krishna reminds Arjuna that desire is the main cause of pain and suffering. It is the cause of anger. Therefore the aspirant should try to eradicate desire and anger if he is to reach the Supreme.

5 The Yoga of Renunciation of Action

---

Arjuna Uvaacha:

*Sannyaasam karmanaam krishna punar yogam cha samsasi;
Yacchreya etayorekam tanme broohi sunischitam.*

Arjuna said:

1. Renunciation of actions, O Krishna! Thou praisest, and again Yoga. Tell me conclusively which is the better of the two.

Sri Bhagavan Uvaacha:

*Sannyaasah karmayogascha nisreyasakaraavubhau;
Tayostu karmasannyaasaat karmayogo visishyate.*

The Blessed Lord said:

2. Renunciation and the Yoga of action both lead to the highest bliss; but of the two, the Yoga of action is superior to the renunciation of action.

*Jneyah sa nityasannyaasi yo na dweshti na kaangkshati;
Nirdwandwo hi mahaabaaho sukham bandhaat pramuchyate.*

3. He should be known as a perpetual Sannyasi who neither hates nor desires; for, free from the pairs of opposites, O mighty-armed Arjuna! he is easily set free from bondage.

Commentary: A man does not become a Sannyasi by merely giving up actions due to laziness, ignorance, some family calamity or unemployment. A true Sannyasi is one who has neither attachment nor aversion to anything.

*Saankhyayogau prithagbaalaah pravadanti na panditaah;
Ekam apyaaasthitah samyagubhayor vindate phalam.*

4. Children, not the wise, speak of knowledge and the Yoga of action or the performance of action as though they are distinct and different; he who is truly established in one obtains the fruits of both.

*Yatsaankhyaaih praapyate sthaanam tad yogair api gamyate;
Ekam saankhyam cha yogam cha yah pasyati sa pasyati.*

5. That place which is reached by the Sankhyas or the Jnanis is reached by the Yogis (Karma Yogis). He sees who sees knowledge and the performance of action (Karma Yoga) as one.

*Sannyaasastu mahaabaaho duhkham aaptumayogatah;
Yogayukto munir brahma na chrenaadhigacchati.*

6. But renunciation, O mighty-armed Arjuna! is hard to attain without Yoga; the Yoga-harmonised sage quickly goes to Brahman.

*Yogayukto visuddhaatmaa vijitaatmaa jitendriyah;
Sarvabhootaatmaabhootaatmaa kurvannapi na lipyate.*

7. He who is devoted to the path of action, whose mind is quite pure, who has conquered the self, who has subdued his senses and who has realised his Self as the Self in all beings, though acting, he is not tainted.

*Naiva kinchit karomeeti yukto manyeta tattwavit;
Pasyan srnvan sprisan jighran nasnan gacchan swapan swasan.*

8. "I do nothing at all," thus would the harmonised knower of Truth think—seeing, hearing, eating, touching, smelling, going, sleeping, breathing,

*Pralapan visrijan grihnan unmishan nimishannapi;
Indriyaaneendriyaartheshu vartanta iti dhaarayan.*

9. Speaking, letting go, seizing, opening and closing the eyes—convinced that the senses move among the sense-objects.

*Brahmanyaadhaaya karmaani sangam tyaktwaa karoti yah;
Lipyate na sa paapena padmapatram ivaambhasaa*

10. He who does actions, offering them to Brahman and abandoning attachment, is not tainted by sin as a lotus leaf by water.

*Kaayena manasaa budhyaa kevalair indriyair api;
Yoginah karma kurvanti sangam tyaktwaatmasuddhaye*

11. Yogis, having abandoned attachment, perform actions only by the body, mind, intellect and even by the senses, for the purification of the self.

*Yuktah karmaphalam tyaktwaa saantim aapnoti naishthikeem;
Ayuktah kaamakaarena phale sakto nibadhyate*

12. The united one (the well-poised or the harmonised), having abandoned the fruit of action, attains to the eternal peace; the non-united only (the unsteady or the unbalanced), impelled by desire, attached to the fruit, is bound.

*Sarvakarmaani manasaa sannasyaaste sukham vasee;
Navadwaare pure dehee naiva kurvan na kaarayan*

13. Mentally renouncing all actions and self-controlled, the embodied one rests happily in the nine-gated city, neither acting nor causing others (body and senses) to act.

*Na kartritwam na karmaani lokasya srijati prabhuh;
Na karmaphalasamyogam swabhavas tu pravartate*

14. Neither agency nor actions does the Lord create for the world, nor union with the fruits of actions. But it is Nature that acts.

*Naadatte kasyachit paapam na chaiva sukritam vibhuh;
Ajnaanenaavritam jnaanam tena muhyanti jantavah.*

15. The Lord takes neither the demerit nor even the merit of any; knowledge is enveloped by ignorance, thereby beings are deluded.

*Jnaanena tu tad ajnaanam yeshaam naasitam aatmanah;
Tesdaam aadityavat jnaanam prakaasayati tatparam.*

16. But to those whose ignorance is destroyed by the knowledge of the Self, like the sun, knowledge reveals the Supreme (Brahman).

*Tadbuddhayas tadaatmaanas tannishthaas tatparaayanaah;
Gacchanyapunaraavrittim jnaanairdhootakalmashaah.*

17. Their intellect absorbed in That, their self being That; established in That, with That as their supreme goal, they go whence there is no return, their sins being dispelled by knowledge.

18. Sages look with an equal eye on a Brahmin endowed with learning and humility, on a cow, on an elephant, and even on a dog and an outcaste.

*Ihaiva tairjitah sargo yeshaam saame sthitam manah;
Nirdosham hi samam brahma tasmaat brahmani te sthitaah.*

19. Even here (in this world) birth (everything) is overcome by those whose minds rest in equality; Brahman is spotless indeed and equal; therefore they are established in Brahman.

*Na prahrishyet priyam praapya nodwijet praapya chaapriyam;
Sthirabuddhir asammoodho brahmaavid brahmani sthitah.*

20. Resting in Brahman with steady intellect, and undeluded, the knower of Brahman neither rejoiceth on obtaining what is pleasant nor grieveth on obtaining what is unpleasant.

*Baahyasparseshwasaktaatma vindatyaatmani yat sukham;
Sa brahmayogayuktaatmaa sukham akshayam asnute.*

21. With the self unattached to external contacts he finds happiness in the Self; with the self engaged in meditation on Brahman he attains to endless happiness.

*Ye hi samsparsajaa bhogaa duhkhayonaya eva te;
Aadyantavantah kaunteya na teshu ramate budhah.*

22. The enjoyments that are born of contacts are only generators of pain, for they have a beginning and an end, O Arjuna! The wise do not rejoice in them.

*Saknotihaiva yah sodhum praak sareeravimokshanat;
Kaamakrodhaddbhavam vegam sa yuktah sa sukhee narah.*

23. He who is able while still here (in this world) to withstand, before the liberation from the body, the impulse born out of desire and anger—he is a Yogi, he is a happy man.

*Yo'antahsukho'ntaraaraamas tathaantarjyotir eva yah;
Sa yogee brahmanirvaanam brahmabhooto'dhigacchati.*

24. He who is happy within, who rejoices within, who is illuminated within, that Yogi attains absolute freedom or Moksha, himself becoming Brahman.

25. The sages (Rishis) obtain absolute freedom or Moksha—they whose sins have been destroyed, whose dualities (perception of dualities or experience of the pairs of opposites) are torn asunder, who are self-controlled and intent on the welfare of all beings.

*Kaamakrodhaviyuktaanaam yateenaam yatachetasaam;

27. Shutting out (all) external contacts and fixing the gaze between the eyebrows, equalising the outgoing and incoming breaths moving within the nostrils,

28. With the senses, the mind and the intellect (ever) controlled, having liberation as his supreme goal, free from desire, fear and anger—the sage is verily liberated for ever.

*Bhoktaaram yajnatapasaam sarvalokamaheswaram;
Suhridam sarvabhootaanaam jnaatwaa maam santimricchati*

29. He who knows Me as the enjoyer of sacrifices and austerities, the great Lord of all the worlds and the friend of all beings, attains to peace.

Thus in the Upanishads of the glorious Bhagavad Gita, the science of the Eternal, the scripture of Yoga, the dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna ends the fifth discourse, entitled:

The Yoga of Renunciation of Action

Summary of Sixth Discourse

---

Sri Krishna emphasises once again that the Yogi or Sannyasin is one who has renounced the fruits of actions, not the actions themselves. The performance of action without an eye on its fruit brings about the purification of the mind. Only a purified mind, a mind free from desires, can engage itself in constant meditation on the Atman. Desire gives rise to imagination or Sankalpa, which drives the soul into the field of action. Therefore none can realise permanent tranquillity of mind without renouncing desires.

The lower self must be controlled by the higher Self. All the lower impulses of the body, mind and senses must be controlled by the power of the higher Self. Then the higher Self becomes one's friend. He who has perfect control of the body, mind and senses and is united with God, sees God in all objects and beings. He sees inwardly that there is no difference between gold and stone, between friends and enemies, between the righteous and the unrighteous. He is perfectly harmonised.

Sri Krishna proceeds to give various practical hints as to the practice of meditation. The aspirant should select a secluded spot where there is no likelihood of disturbance. He should arrange his meditation seat properly and sit in a comfortable posture, keeping the head, neck and spine erect but not tensed. He should fix his purified mind on the Atman by concentrating between the eyebrows or on the tip of the nose.

The practice of Brahmacharya is absolutely necessary if one is to succeed in meditation. The conservation and transformation of the vital fluid into spiritual energy gives immense power of concentration. Fearlessness, too, is an essential quality on the Godward path. It is faith in the sustaining Grace of God.

The aspirant is advised to practise moderation in his daily habits—in eating, sleeping, recreation, etc. Extremes are to be avoided as they hinder the practice of meditation. Living a life of such moderation, and gathering up all his forces and directing them towards meditation upon the Atman, the aspirant gradually transcends the senses and intellect and merges himself in the blissful Atman. He discovers that the bliss of the Atman is incomparable, that there is no gain greater than the Self. Having thus attained perfect union with the Self, the Yogi no more descends into ignorance or delusion. He does not relish any more the pleasures of the senses.

Lord Krishna again emphasises that the concentration of the mind on the Atman should be like a steady flame in a windless place. This ultimately leads to the vision of the Lord in all beings and creatures. Arjuna is doubtful whether it is at all possible to engage the mind steadily on the higher Self, as its very nature seems to be one of restlessness. Krishna assures him that the practice can succeed through Vairagya (dispassion) and constant effort.

Arjuna wishes to know the fate of the aspirant who fails to realise the Supreme in spite of his faith and sincerity. Krishna tells him that the accumulated power of his Yogic practices will assure him a better birth in the future, with more favourable conditions for Sadhana. The aspirant will then be compelled to carry on his Yogic practices with greater vigour and faith and will finally achieve God-realisation.

Krishna concludes that the Yogi—one who has attained union with the Supreme Lord—is superior to the ascetics, to the men of book knowledge and the men of action, as the latter have not transcended ignorance and merged in the Self.

6 The Yoga of Meditation

---

Sri Bhagavan Uvaacha:

*Anaashritah karmaphalam kaaryam karma karoti yah;
Sa sannyasi cha yogee cha na niragnirna chaakriyah.*

The Blessed Lord said:

1. He who performs his bounden duty without depending on the fruits of his actions, he is a Sannyasi and a Yogi; not he who is without fire and without action.

*Yam sannyasamiti praahuryogam tam viddhi paandava;
Na hyasannyastasankalpo yogee bhavati kaschana.*

2. Do thou, O Arjuna! know Yoga to be that which they call renunciation; no one verily becomes a Yogi who has not renounced thoughts.

Commentary: No one can become a Karma Yogi who plans and expects fruits for his actions.

*Aarurukshormuneryogam karma kaaranamuchyate;
Yogaarudhasya tasyaiva shamah kaaranamuchyate.*

3. For the sage who wishes to attain to Yoga, action is said to be the means; for the same sage who has attained to Yoga, inaction (quiescence) is said to be the means.

39. This doubt of mine, O Krishna! do Thou dispel completely, because it is not possible for any but Thee to dispel this doubt.

Sri Bhagavan Uvaacha:

*Paartha naiveha naamutra vinaashas tasya vidyate;
Nahi kalyaanakrit kaschit duratim taata gacchati.*

The Blessed Lord said:

40. O Arjuna! neither in this world nor in the next is there destruction for him; none, verily, who does good, O My son, ever comes to grief!

*Praaypa punyakritaam lokaanushitwaa shaashwateeh samaah;

41. Having attained to the worlds of the righteous, and having dwelt there for everlasting years, he who fell from Yoga is reborn in the house of the pure and wealthy.

*Athavaa yoginaameva kule bhavati dheemataam;
Etaddhi durlabhataram loke janma yadeedrisham.*

42. Or he is born in a family of even the wise Yogis; verily, a birth like this is very difficult to obtain in this world.

*Tatra tam buddhisamyogam labhate pourvadehikam;
Yatate cha tato bhooyah samsiddhau kurunandana.*

43. There he comes in touch with the knowledge acquired in his former body and strives more than before for perfection, O Arjuna!

*Poorvaabhyaasena tenaiva hriyate hyavashopi sah;
Jijnaasurapi yogasya shabdabrahmaativartate.*

44. By that very former practice he is borne on in spite of himself. Even he who merely wishes to know Yoga goes beyond the Brahmic word.

Commentary: Even an enquirer in whom a desire for information about Yoga is kindled goes beyond the Vedas.

*Prayatnaadyatamaanastu yogee samshuddhakilbishah;

45. But the Yogi who strives with assiduity, purified of sins and perfected gradually through many births, reaches the highest goal.

*Tapaswibhyo'dhiko yogee jnaanibhyo'pi mato'dhikah;
Karmibhyaschaadhiko yogee tasmaad yogee bhavaarjuna.*

46. The Yogi is thought to be superior to the ascetics and even superior to men of knowledge (obtained through the study of scriptures); he is also superior to men of action; therefore be thou a Yogi, O Arjuna!

*Yoginaamapi sarveshaam madgatenaantaraatmanaa;
Shraddhaavaan bhajate yo maam sa me yuktatamo matah.*

47. And among all the Yogis, he who, full of faith and with his inner self merged in Me, worships Me, he is deemed by Me to be the most devout.

Thus in the Upanishads of the glorious Bhagavad Gita, the science of the Eternal, the scripture of Yoga, the dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna, ends the sixth discourse, entitled:

The Yoga of Meditation

Summary of Seventh Discourse

Sri Krishna tells Arjuna that the supreme Godhead has to be realised in both its transcendent and immanent aspects. The Yogi who has reached this summit has nothing more to know.

This complete union with the Lord is difficult of attainment. Among many thousands of human beings, very few aspire for this union, and even among those who aspire for it, few ever reach the pinnacle of spiritual realisation.

The Lord has already given a clear description of the all-pervading static and infinite state of His. Now He proceeds to explain His manifestations as the universe and the power behind it. He speaks of these manifestations as His lower and higher Prakritis. The lower Prakriti is made up of the five elements, mind, ego and intellect. The higher Prakriti is the life-element which upholds the universe, activates it and causes its appearance and final dissolution.

Krishna says that whatever exists is nothing but Himself. He is the cause of the appearance of the universe and all things in it. Everything is strung on Him like clusters of gems on a string. He is the essence, the substance and substratum of everything, whether visible or invisible. Although everything is in Him, yet He transcends everything as the actionless Self. Prakriti or Nature is made up of the three Gunas or qualities—Sattwa, Rajas and Tamas. These three qualities delude the soul and make it forget its true nature, which is one with God. This delusion, termed Maya, can only be removed by the Grace of the Lord Himself.

Thus far Arjuna has been taught the highest form of devotion, which leads to union with God in His static aspect as also with His dynamic Prakriti. Krishna tells him that there are also other forms of devotion which are inferior as they are performed with various motives. The distressed, the seeker of divine wisdom, and he who desires wealth, worship Him, as also the wise. Of these the Lord deems the wise as dearest to Him. Such a devotee loves the Lord for the sake of pure love alone. Whatever form a devotee worships, the ultimate goal is the Lord Himself. The Lord accepts such worship, knowing that it is directed to Him only.

*Etadyoneeni bhootaani sarvaaneetyupadhaaraya;

Pranavas sarvavedeshu shabdah khe paurusham nrishu*

8. I am the sapidity in water, O Arjuna! I am the light in the moon and the sun; I am the syllable Om in all the Vedas, sound in ether and virility in men.

*Punyo gandhah prithivyaam cha tejaschasmi vibhaavasau;

10. Know Me, O Arjuna! as the eternal seed of all beings; I am the intelligence of the intelligent; the splendour of the splendid objects am I.

*Balam balavataam chaaham kaamaraagavivarjitam;

11. Of the strong, I am the strength devoid of desire and attachment, and in (all) beings, I am the desire unopposed to Dharma, O Arjuna!

12. Whatever being (and objects) that are pure, active and inert, know that they proceed from Me. They are in Me, yet I am not in them.

13. Deluded by these Natures (states or things), composed of the three qualities of Nature, all this world does not know Me as distinct from them and immutable.

*Daivee hyeshaa gunamayee mama maayaa duratyayaa;
Maameva ye prapadyante maayaametaam taranti te.*

14. Verily, this divine illusion of Mine made up of the (three) qualities (of Nature) is difficult to cross over; those who take refuge in Me alone cross over this illusion.

*Na maam dushkritino moodhaah prapadyante naraadhamaah;
Maayayaapahritajnaanaa aasuram bhaavamaashritaah.*

15. The evil-doers and the deluded, who are the lowest of men, do not seek Me; they whose knowledge is destroyed by illusion follow the ways of demons.

*Chaturvidhaa bhajante maam janaas sukritino'rjuna;
Aarto jijnaasurarthathee jnaanee cha bharatarshabha.*

16. Four kinds of virtuous men worship Me, O Arjuna! And they are the distressed, the seeker of knowledge, the seeker of wealth, and the wise, O Lord of the Bharatas!

*Teshaam jnanee nityayukta ekabhaktirvishishyate;

*Sa tayaa shraddhayaa yuktastasyaaraadhanameehate;

22. Endowed with that faith, he engages in the worship of that

*Antavattu phalam teshaaam tadbhavatyalpamedhasaam;
Devaan devayajo yaanti madbhaktaa yaanti maamapi*

23. Verily the reward (fruit) that accrues to those men of small intelligence is finite. The worshippers of the gods go to them, but My devotees come to Me.

*Avyaktam vyaktimaapannam manyante maamabuddhayah;
Param bhaavamajaananto mamaavyayamanuttamam*

24. The foolish think of Me, the Unmanifest, as having manifestation, knowing not My higher, immutable and most excellent nature.

*Naaham prakaashah sarvasya yogamaayaasamaavritah;
Moodho'yam naabhijaanaati loko maamajamavyayam*

25. I am not manifest to all, being (as I am) veiled by the Yoga Maya. This deluded world does not know Me, the unborn and imperishable.

*Vedaaham samateetaani vartamaanaani chaarjuna;
Bhavishyaani cha bhootani maam tu veda na kaschana*

26. I know, O Arjuna! the beings of the past, the present and the future, but no one knows Me.

*Ichhaadweshasamutthana dwandwamohena bhaarata;
Sarvabhootaani sammoham sarge yaanti parantapa*

27. By the delusion of the pairs of opposites arising from desire and aversion, O Bharata! all beings are subject to delusion at birth, O Parantapa!

*Yeshaam twantagatam paapam janaanaam punyakarmanaam;
Te dwandwamohanirmuktaa bhajante maam dridhavrataah*

28. But those men of virtuous deeds whose sins have come to an end, and who are freed from the delusion of the pairs of opposites, worship Me, steadfast in their vows.

*Jaraamaranamokshaaya maamaashritya yatanti ye;
Te brahma tadviduh kritsnam adhyaatmam karma chaakhilam.*

29. Those who strive for liberation from old age and death, taking refuge in Me, realise in full that Brahman, the whole knowledge of the Self and all action.

*Saadhibhootaadhidaivam maam saadhiyajnam cha ye viduh;
Prayaanakaalepi cha maam te vidur yuktachetasah.*

30. Those who know Me with the Adhibhuta (pertaining to the elements), Adhidaiva (pertaining to the gods), and the Adhiyajna (pertaining to the sacrifice), know Me even at the time of death, steadfast in mind.

Commentary: They who are steadfast in mind, who have taken refuge in Me, who know Me as the knowledge of elements on the physical plane, as the knowledge of gods on the celestial or mental plane, as the knowledge of the sacrifice in the realm of sacrifice, are not affected.

Thus in the Upanishads of the glorious Bhagavad Gita, the science of the Eternal, the scripture of Yoga, the dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna, ends the seventh discourse, entitled:

The Yoga of Wisdom and Realisation

Summary of Eighth Discourse

Arjuna here asks Sri Krishna about the meaning of the different terms referred to by Him in the last two verses of the previous chapter. He wishes to know what is the Supreme Being, what is Karma or action that He refers to, and what is the meaning that pertains to this spirit, the elements and the centre of all things within this human body.

Beyond all things manifest and unmanifest, beyond these names and forms, there is the Supreme Being—Brahman. He indwells this body as the centre of all things, including even our own self (individual soul). We are a spiritual being residing in this body and supported by the Silent Witness within—the Supreme Antaryamin. Prakriti or Nature is the being pertaining to the elements. Worship, prayer and offering to the gods with faith and devotion constitute actions that lead to blessedness.

The secret of reaching the Divine Being and thus freeing oneself forever from birth and death and the pains and sufferings of this earth-life, is to constantly practise unbroken remembrance of the Lord at all times, in all places and even amidst one's daily activities and occupations. If one practises such steady remembrance through regular daily Sadhana, then he will become rooted in His remembrance even at the time of departing from this body at death. Thus departing, he will go beyond darkness and bondage and attain the realm of eternal blessedness.

One must practise sense-control. The senses must be disciplined and gradually withdrawn from outside objects. The mind should be centred within upon God, uttering Om or any Divine Name. By such steady practice daily the Lord is easily attainable.

Lord Krishna explains how those who attain Him do not have to come again into this impermanent world of sorrow and pain. All beings, including even the gods, come again and again into this created universe from the state of unmanifest being wherein they remained at the end of an age-cycle. But the Lord exists even beyond this unmanifest being. That radiant, imperishable Divine Reality is the highest goal to be attained. Single-minded devotion of our heart is the means of attaining this highest blessed state.

Even though there are auspicious and inauspicious circumstances of departing from the physical body and journeying forth, yet if one steadily abides in the Lord through firm devotion and faith, then these conditions do not matter. By constantly remaining in tune with the Divine through pure love, everything is made auspicious. If one can ever remain united with God through deep devotion, constant remembrance, regular meditation and continuous communion, then times, places, conditions and situations become auspicious and blessed. This is the secret of invoking His Grace and attaining Him and becoming eternally free and blissful.

The Yoga of the Imperishable Brahman

---

Arjuna Uvaacha:

*Kim tadbrahma kim adhyaatmam kim karma purushottama;
Adhibhootam cha kim proktam adhidaivam kimuchyate.*

Arjuna said:

1. What is that Brahman? What is Adhyatma? What is action, O best among men? What is declared to be Adhibhuta? And what is Adhidaiva said to be?

*Adhiyajnah katham ko'tra dehes'min madhusudana;
Prayaanakaale cha katham jneyosi niyataatmabhih.*

2. Who and how is Adhiyajna here in this body, O destroyer of Madhu (Krishna)? And how, at the time of death, art Thou to be known by the self-controlled?

Sri Bhagavan Uvaacha:

*Aksharam brahma paramam swabhaavo'dhyaatmamuchyate;
Bhootabhaavodbhavakaro visargah karmasamjnitah.*

The Blessed Lord said:

3. Brahman is the Imperishable, the Supreme: His essential nature is called Self-knowledge; the offering (to the gods) which causes existence and manifestation of beings and which also sustains them is called action.

*Adhibhootam ksharo bhaavah purushaschaadhidaivatam;
Adhiyajnohamevaatra dehe dehabhritaam vara.*

CC-O. Agamnigam Digital Preservation Foundation, Chandigarh

4. Adhibhutam (knowledge of the elements) pertains to My perishable Nature, and the Purusa or the soul is the Adhidaivam; I alone am the Adhiyajna here in this body, O best among the embodied (men)!

*Antakaale cha maameva smaran muktwaa kalevaram;
Yah prayaati sa madbhaavam yaati naastyatra samshayah.*

5. And whosoever leaving the body goes forth remembering Me alone at the time of death, he attains My Being; there is no doubt about this.

*Yam yam vaapi smaran bhaavam tyajatyante kalevaram;
Tam tamevaiti kaunteya sadaa tabdhaavabhaavitah.*

6. Whosoever at the end leaves the body, thinking of any being, to that being only does he go, O son of Kunti (Arjuna)! because of his constant thought of that being.

Commentary: The most prominent thought of one's life occupies the mind at the time of death. It determines the nature or character of the body to be attained in the next birth.

*Tasmaat sarveshu kaaleshu maamanusmara yudhya cha;
Mayyarpitamanobuddhir maamevaishyasyasamshayam.*

7. Therefore, at all times remember Me only and fight. With mind and intellect fixed (or absorbed) in Me, thou shalt doubtless come to Me alone.

*Abhyaasayogayuktena chetasaa naanyagaaminaa;

*Bhootagraamha sa evaayam bhootwaa bhootwaa praleeyate;

26. The bright and the dark paths of the world are verily thought to be eternal; by the one (the bright path) a man goes not to return, and by the other (the dark path) he returns.

Commentary: The bright path is the path to the gods taken by the devotees. The dark path is of the manes taken by those who perform sacrifices or charitable acts with the expectation of rewards.

*Naite sritee paartha jaanan yogee muhyati kaschana;
Tasmaat sarveshu kaaleshu yogayukto bhavaarjuna.*

27. Knowing these paths, O Arjuna! no Yogi is deluded; therefore at all times be steadfast in Yoga.

Whatever fruit or merit is declared (in the scriptures) to accrue from (the study of) the Vedas, (the performance of) sacrifices, (the practice of) austerities, the offering of gifts—beyond all this goes the Yogi, having known this; and he attains to the Supreme Primeval (first or ancient) Abode.

Thus in the Upanishads of the glorious Bhagavad Gita, the science of the Eternal, the scripture of Yoga, the dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna, ends the eighth discourse entitled:

The Yoga of the Imperishable Brahman

Summary of Ninth Discourse

---

Observing that Arjuna was a qualified aspirant and endowed with faith, Krishna declares to him the sovereign knowledge and sovereign secret that is to be known by direct experience. He adds that without faith in this knowledge man fails to reach God and is reborn to suffer.

Now the Lord proceeds to describe His nature as the all-comprehensive Truth. He is everything that is visible and invisible. He pervades everything that exists. He creates everything, sustains everything, and when final dissolution takes place, absorbs everything into Himself. He manifests them again when the next creation begins. All beings who are ignorant of this knowledge are caught helplessly in this cycle of birth and death. In the midst of this creation, preservation and dissolution of the universe, the Lord stands as a witness, unaffected and unattached. He is the sole director, sustainer and supervisor of His Cosmic Prakriti.

Ignorant beings are not able to recognise the Lord in one who has realised Him. Although these cruel beings assume a human form, their nature is that of demons. The God-realised Mahatma, on the other hand, is a man of knowledge, and perceives Him indwelling all beings and creatures. He beholds the underlying unity of existence in all names and forms.

The Lord's divine protection is assured to all those who take refuge in Him. Whatever path a devotee follows, he ultimately reaches Him. He is the goal of the various methods of spiritual practice. Devotion, Sri Krishna emphasises, is the essence of all spiritual discipline. If this supreme element is present, then the devotee is freed from bondage. The Lord observes the motive and degree of devotion. Even the most sinful and diabolical man, if he takes a radical turn towards the path of truth and righteousness, reaches the Lord. Whatever vocation one follows, one can attain the Lord if one seeks earnestly and with loving devotion. The essential thing is to fix the entire mind on the Lord and dedicate everything unto Him—one's body, mind, actions, will and emotion.

Maamevaishyasi yuktwaivamaatmaanam matparaayanah.*

34. Fix thy mind on Me, be devoted to Me, sacrifice unto Me, bow down to Me; having thus united thy whole self with Me, taking Me as the Supreme Goal, thou shalt come unto Me.

Thus in the Upanishads of the glorious Bhagavad Gita, the science of the Eternal, the scripture of Yoga, the dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna, ends the ninth discourse, entitled:

The Yoga of the Kingly Science and Kingly Secret

Summary of Tenth Discourse

---

Krishna tells Arjuna that even the Devas and highly evolved souls fail to understand how He projects Himself as the universe and all its manifestations. He goes on to describe the various qualities that beings manifest according to their respective Karmas. All these qualities—wisdom, truth, contentment, etc., originate from Him.

The true devotees of the Lord are wholly absorbed in Him. They have surrendered to Him and through single-minded devotion they are granted the power of discrimination, the discrimination that leads them from the unreal to the Real. Krishna emphatically declares that ignorance is destroyed and knowledge gained through Divine Grace alone.

Arjuna accepts the descent of the Supreme in a human form, but wishes to know from the Lord Himself His Cosmic powers by means of which He controls the diverse forces of the universe. The Lord describes His Divine glories, bringing within the range of Arjuna's comprehension His limitless manifestations, and how He upholds everything. In short, the Lord is the Almighty Power that creates, sustains and destroys everything.

Thus in the Upanishads of the glorious Bhagavad Gita, the science of the Eternal, the scripture of Yoga, the dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna, ends the tenth discourse, entitled:

The Yoga of the Divine Glories

Summary of Eleventh Discourse

---

Arjuna's doubts having been removed through a clear description of the nature of the Atman and the origin and destruction of all created things, he is now ready to behold the Cosmic Vision.

Krishna grants him the divine sight by means of which Arjuna beholds the Lord as the vast Cosmic Manifestation. The vision is at once all-comprehensive and simultaneous. In every direction Arjuna sees the Lord as the entire universe. All the created worlds, gods, beings, creatures and things stand revealed as the one gigantic body of the Lord.

Arjuna further sees that the great Cosmic Drama is set in motion and controlled by the all-mighty power of the Lord. His Will alone prevails in all things and actions, both good and bad. The Lord exhorts him to fight, he being only an apparent cause of the destruction of his enemies.

Arjuna is not able to bear the pressure of the sudden expansion of consciousness and is filled with fear. He begs the Lord to assume once more His usual form.

Krishna reiterates that this vision cannot be had through any amount of austerities, study, sacrifices or philanthropic acts. Supreme devotion is the only means by which one can have access to His grand vision.

55. He who does all actions for Me, who looks upon Me as the Supreme, who is devoted to Me, who is free from attachment, who bears enmity towards no creature, he comes to Me, O Arjuna!

Thus in the Upanishads of the glorious Bhagavad Gita, the science of the Eternal, the scripture of Yoga, the dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna, ends the eleventh discourse, entitled:

The Yoga of the Vision of the Cosmic Form

Summary of Twelfth Discourse

---

The twelfth discourse indicates that the path of devotion is easier than the path of knowledge. In this path the aspirant worships God in His Cosmic Form of Supreme Personality. He develops a loving relationship with Him, adores Him, remembers Him and chants His praises and Name. He thus effects union with the Lord and attains not only His formless aspect but also the Lord as the manifest universe.

The path of knowledge, whereby the aspirant meditates on the formless Brahman, is more difficult as he has to give up his attachment to the body from the very beginning. He has to have dispassion for the things of the world.

How to practise devotion? Krishna asks Arjuna to fix his entire mind on Him. As often as the mind wanders it should be brought back to the Lord. If this process of concentration is difficult he should dedicate all his actions to Him, feeling that it is His power that activates everything. If this also is beyond his ability, he should offer all his actions to the Lord, abandoning the desire for their fruits. He should take complete refuge in Him. The devotee who surrenders himself completely to the Lord attains perfect peace and tranquillity of mind.

The Lord goes on to describe the qualities that a true devotee possesses. He neither attaches himself to anything nor does he have any aversion to things. He has a balanced mind under all circumstances. He is not agitated by the happenings of the world, nor does he himself cause any agitation in others. He is perfectly desireless and rejoices in the Lord within. He sees equality everywhere, being untouched by sorrow, fear, honour and dishonour. He is perfectly content as he has completely surrendered his entire being to the Lord.

4. Having restrained all the senses, even-minded everywhere, intent on the welfare of all beings—verily they also come unto Me.

*Klesho'dhikatarasteshaam avyaktaasaktachetasaam;
Avyaktaa hi gatirduhkkham dehavadbhiravaapyate.*

5. Greater is their trouble whose minds are set on the Unmanifested; for the goal, the Unmanifested, is very hard for the embodied to reach.

Commentary: The embodied: those who identify themselves with their bodies.

*Ye tu sarvaani karmaani mayi sannyasya matparaah;
Anannyenaiva yogena maam dhyaayanta upaasate.*

6. But to those who worship Me, renouncing all actions in Me, regarding Me as the supreme goal, meditating on Me with single-minded Yoga,

*Teshaamaham samuddhartaa mrityusamsaarasaagaraat;
Bhavaami nachirat paartha mayyaaveshitachetasaam.*

7. To those whose minds are set on Me, O Arjuna! verily I become ere long the saviour out of the ocean of Samsara.

*Mayyeva mana aadhatwa mayi buddhim niveshaya;

8. Fix thy mind on Me only, thy intellect in Me, (then) thou shalt no doubt live in Me alone hereafter.

*Atha chittam samaadhaatum na shaknoshi mayi sthiram;
Abhyaasayogena tato maamicchaaptum dhananjaya.*

9. If thou art unable to fix thy mind steadily on Me, then by the Yoga of constant practice do thou seek to reach Me, O Arjuna!

*Abhyaasepyasamarthosi matkarmaparamo bhava;
Madarthamapi karmaani kurvansiddhimavaapsyasi.*

10. If thou art unable to practise even this Abhyasa Yoga, be thou intent on doing actions for My sake; even by doing actions for My sake, thou shalt attain perfection.

*Athaitadapyashaktosi kartum madyogamaashritah;
Sarvakarmaphalatyaagam tatah kuru yatatmavaan.*

11. If thou art unable to do even this, then, taking refuge in union with Me, renounce the fruits of all actions with the self controlled.

*Shreyo hi jnaanamabhyaasaat jnaanaaddhyaanam vishishyate;
Dhyaanaat karmaphalatyaagastyagaatcchaantiranantaram.*

12. Better indeed is knowledge than practice; than knowledge meditation is better; than meditation the renunciation of the fruits of actions; peace immediately follows renunciation.

*Adweshtaa sarvabhootaanaam maitrah karuna eva cha;
Nirmamo nirahankaaras samaduhkhasukhah kashamee.*

13. He who hates no creature, who is friendly and compassionate to all, who is free from attachment and egoism, balanced in pleasure and in pain, and forgiving,

Thus in the Upanishads of the glorious Bhagavad Gita, the science of the Eternal, the scripture of Yoga, the dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna, ends the twelfth discourse entitled:

The Yoga of Devotion

Summary of Thirteenth Discourse

In this discourse we have one of the most significant, most illuminating, most inspiring and most mystical portions of the Bhagavad Gita. The Lord gives us a wonderfully revealing insight into the human individual. It is the metaphysics of Man, the Unknown. The Immortal Soul, with its physical embodiment, is the main theme of this discourse. The supreme transcendental Spirit, which is the eternal substratum beyond both, is also described in a wonderful manner. The knower of the Supreme Reality is instantly liberated.

The blessed Lord tells us that the knowledge of the Field and the Knower of the Field is the true knowledge. This highest and the best knowledge grants us divine wisdom and spiritual illumination that lead to divine beatitude. This body is the Field. The Immortal Soul (yourself), dwelling in the body is the Knower of the Field. Verily, it is the Supreme Being who has projected Himself and assumed the form of this Knower of the Field within this body. This self is none other than That. Thus, Lord Krishna explains the mystery of the individual soul dwelling within this mortal body. This knowledge constitutes the main subject matter of all the scriptures and the highest philosophical works.

The five elements, the ego, the mind, intellect and the ten organs, desire and aversion and such factors constitute the Field. Next follows a wonderful summing-up of what constitutes true knowledge. Then follows the declaration of the Supreme Soul, the knowledge of which grants us immortality. That supreme Reality is the one universal Essence present everywhere. It pervades all. It shines within the inmost chambers of our heart. It is everything. It is the one seer, the witness, the guide, sustainer, experiencer and Lord of all. One who knows this mystery is not bound by activity even in the midst of life. When we perceive this supreme Presence dwelling in all beings we cannot injure anyone. Krishna asks us to see and know the difference between the Field (body or Prakriti) and the Knower of the Field (Spirit or Purusha), and thus reach the Self. This is the teaching and the message of this illuminating discourse.

13 The Yoga of Distinction Between the Field and The Knower of the Field

---

Arjuna Uvaacha:

*Prakritim purusham chaiva kshetram kshetrajnameva cha;
Etadveditumicchaami jnaanam jneyam cha keshava.*

Arjuna said:

1. I wish to learn about Nature (matter) and the Spirit (soul), the Field and the Knower of the Field, Knowledge and that which ought to be known.

Sri Bhagavan Uvaacha:

*Idam shareeram kaunteya kshetramityabhidheeyate;
Etadyo vetti tam praahuh kshetrajna iti tadvidah.*

The Blessed Lord said:

2. This body, O Arjuna! is called the Field; he who knows it is called the Knower of the Field, by those who know of them, i.e., by the sages.

Commentary: The body is so called because the fruits (harvest) of actions in the form of pleasure and pain are reaped in it as in a field.

*Kshetrajnam chaapi maam viddhi sarvaksetreshu bhaarata;
Kshetrakshetrajnayorjnaanam yattat jnaanam matam mama.*

3. Do thou also know Me as the Knower of the Field in all fields, O Arjuna! Knowledge of both the Field and the Knower of the Field is considered by Me to be the knowledge.

*Tat kshetram yatcha yaadrik cha yadvikaari yatashcha yat;
Sa cha yo yatprabhaavascha tatsamaasena me shrunu*

4. What the Field is and of what nature, what are its modifications and whence it is, and also who He is and what His powers are—hear all that from Me in brief.

*Rishibhirbahudhaa geetam cchandobhirvividhaih prithak;
Brahmasootrapadaishaiva hetumadbhirvinischitaih*

5. Sages have sung of it in many ways, in various distinctive chants and also in the suggestive words indicative of the Absolute, full of reasoning and decisive.

*Mahaabhootaanyahankaaro buddhiravyaktameva cha;
Indriyaani dasaikam cha pancha chendriyagocharaah*

6. The great elements, egoism, intellect and also the Unmanifested Nature, the ten senses and one, and the five objects of the senses,

Commentary: Great elements: earth, water, fire, air and ether are so called because they pervade all modifications of matter. The ten senses are: the five organs of knowledge (ears, skin, eyes, tongue and nose), and the five organs of action—the hands, feet, mouth, anus and generative organ.

The one: this is the mind. The five objects of the senses are sound, touch, form (colour), taste and smell.

*Ichha dweshas sukham duhkham sanghaataschetanaa dhritih;
Etat kshetram samaasena savikaaramudaahritam*

7. Desire, hatred, pleasure, pain, the aggregate (the body), intelligence, fortitude—the Field has thus been briefly described with its modifications.

*Amaanitwam adambhitwam ahimsaa kshaantiraarjavam;
Aacharyopaasanam shaucham sthairyamaatmavinigrahaah*

8. Humility, unpretentiousness, non-injury, forgiveness, uprightness, service of the teacher, purity, steadfastness, self-control,

Indriyaartheshu vairaagyamanahamkaara eva cha; Janmamrityujaraavyaadhiduhkhadoshaanudarshanam.

9. Indifference to the objects of the senses and also absence of egoism, perception of (or reflection on) the evils of birth, death, old age, sickness and pain,

*Asaktiranabhishwangah putradaaragrihaadishu;
Nityam cha samachittatwam ishtaanishtopapattishu.*

10. Non-attachment, non-identification of the Self with son, wife, home and the rest, and constant even-mindedness on the attainment of the desirable and the undesirable,

*Mayi chaananyayogena bhaktiravyabhichaarinee;
Viviktadeshasevitwam aratirjanasamsadi.*

11. Unswerving devotion to Me by the Yoga of non-separation, resorting to solitary places, distaste for the society of men;

*Adhyaatmajnaananityatwam tattwajnaanaarthadarshanam;
Etaijnanaanamiti proktam ajnaanam yadato'nyathaa.*

12. Constancy in Self-knowledge, perception of the end of true knowledge—this is declared to be Knowledge, and what is opposed to it is ignorance.

*Jneyam yat tatpravakshyaami yajjinaatwaamritamashnute;
Anaadimatparam brahma na sattannasaduchyate.*

13. I will declare that which has to be known, knowing which one attains to immortality, the beginningless Supreme Brahman, called neither being nor non-being.

*Sarvatah paanipaadam tat sarvatokshishiromukham;
Sarvatas shrutimalloke sarvamaavritya tishthati.*

14. With hands and feet everywhere, with eyes, heads and mouths everywhere, with ears everywhere, He exists in the world, enveloping all.

Sarvendriyagunaabhaasam sarvendriyavivarjitam; Asaktam sarvabhricchaiva nirgunam gunabhoktru cha.

15. Shining by the functions of all the senses, yet without the senses; unattached, yet supporting all; devoid of qualities, yet their experiencer,

*Bahirantascha bhootaanaamacharam chameva cha;
Sookshmatwaat tadavijneyam doorastham chaantike cha tat.*

16. Without and within (all) beings, the unmoving and also the moving; because of Its subtlety, unknowable; and near and far away is That.

*Avibhaktam cha bhooteshu vibhaktamiva cha sthitam;
Bhootabhartru cha tatjneyam grasishnu prabhavishnu cha.*

17. And undivided, yet He exists as if divided in beings; He is to be known as the supporter of beings; He devours and He generates.

*Jyotishaamapi tajjyotistamasah paramuchyate;
Jnaanam jneyam jnaanagamyam hridi sarvasya vishthitam.*

18. That, the Light of all lights, is said to be beyond darkness—Knowledge, the knowable and the goal of knowledge, seated in the hearts of all.

*Iti kshetram tathaa jnaanam jneyam choktam samaasatah;
Madbhakta etadvijnaaya madbhaavaayopapadyate.*

19. Thus the Field as well as Knowledge and the knowable have been briefly stated. My devotee, knowing this, enters into My Being.

*Prakritim purusham chaiva vidhyanaadee ubhaavapi;
Vikaaraamscha gunaamschaiva viddhi prakritisambhavaan.*

20. Know thou that Nature (matter) and the Spirit are both beginningless; and know also that all modifications and qualities are born of Nature.

*Kaaryakaaranakartrutwe hetuh prakritiruchyate;
Purushas sukhaduhkhaanaam bhokrutwe heturuchyate.*

21. In the production of the effect and the cause, the Nature (matter) is said to be the cause; in the experience of pleasure and pain, the soul is said to be the cause.

*Purushah prakritistho hi bhunkte prakritijaan gunaan;
Karaanam gunasangosya sadasadyonijanmasu.*

22. The soul, seated in Nature, experiences the qualities born of Nature; attachment to the qualities is the cause of his birth in good and evil wombs.

*Upadrashtaanumantaa cha bhartaa bhoktaa maheshwarah;
Paramaatmeti chaapyukto dehe'smin purushah parah.*

23. The Supreme Soul in this body is also called the spectator, the permitter, the supporter, the enjoyer, the great Lord and the Supreme Self.

*Ya evam vetti purusham prakritim cha gunais saha;
Sarvathaa vartamaano'pi na sa bhooyopi jaayate.*

24. He who thus knows the Spirit and Matter together with the qualities, in whatever condition he may be, he is not born again.

*Dhyaanenaatmani pashyanti kechidaatmaanamaatmanaa;
Anye saankhyena yogena karmayogena chaapare.*

25. Some by meditation behold the Self in the Self by the Self, others by the Yoga of knowledge, and others by the Yoga of action.

*Anye tvevamajaanantas shrutwaanyebhya upaasate;
Tepi chaatitarntyeva mrityum shrutiparaayanaah.*

26. Others also, not knowing thus, worship, having heard of it from others; they too cross beyond death, regarding what they have heard as the supreme refuge.

*Yaavat sanjaayate kinchit sattwam sthavarajangamam;
Kshetrakshetrajnasamyogaat tadviddhi bharatarshabha.*

27. Wherever a being is born, whether unmoving or moving, know thou, O best of the Bharatas (Arjuna)! that it is from the union between the Field and its Knower.

*Samam sarveshu bhooteshu tishthantam parameshwaram;
Vinashyatswavinashyantam yah pashyati sa pashyati.*

28. He sees who sees the Supreme Lord, existing equally in all beings, the unperishing within the perishing.

*Samam pashyan hi sarvatra samavasthitameeshwaram;
Na hinastyaatmaanataatmanam tato yaati paraam gatim.*

29. Because he who sees the same Lord equally dwelling everywhere does not destroy the Self by the self he goes to the highest goal.

*Prakrityaiva cha karmaani kriyamaanaani sarvashah;
Yah pashyati tathaatamanamakartaaram sa pashyati.*

30. He sees, who sees that all actions are performed by Nature alone and that the Self is actionless.

*Yadaa bhootaprithagbhaavamekasthamanupashyati;
Tata eva cha vistaaram brahma sampadyate tadaa.*

31. When a man sees the whole variety of beings as resting in the One and spreading forth from That alone, he then becomes Brahman.

*Anaaditwaat nirgunatwaat paramaatmaayamavyayah;
Shareerasthopi kaunteya na karoti na lipyate.*

32. Being without beginning and devoid of (any) qualities, the Supreme Self, imperishable, though dwelling in the body, O Arjuna! neither acts nor is tainted.

*Yathaa sarvagatam saukshmyaadaakasham nopalipyate;
Sarvatraavasthito dehe tathaatmaa nopalipyate.*

33. As the all pervading ether is not tainted because of its subtlety, so the Self seated everywhere in the body is not tainted.

*Yathaa prakashayatyekah kritsnam lokamimam ravih;
Kshetram kshetree tathaa kritsnam prakaashayati bhaarata.*

34. Just as the one sun illumines the whole world, so also the Lord of the Field (Supreme Self) illumines the whole Field, O Arjuna!

*Kshetrakshetrajnayorevam antaram jnaanachakshushaa;
Bhootaprakritimoksham cha ye vidur yaanti te param.*

35. They who, by the eye of knowledge, perceive the distinction between the Field and its Knower, and also the liberation from the Nature of being, go to the Supreme.

Commentary: They who know through the eye of intuition opened by meditation and the instructions of the Guru and the scriptures, that the Field is insentient, the doer, changing and finite, and that the Knower of the Field (the Self) is Pure Consciousness, the non-doer, unchanging and infinite; and who also perceive the non-existence of Nature, ignorance, the Unmanifested, the material cause of being—they attain the Supreme.

Thus in the Upanishads of the glorious Bhagavad Gita, the science of the Eternal, the scripture of Yoga, the dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna, ends the thirteenth discourse entitled:

*The Yoga of Distinction Between
The Field and the Knower of the Field*

Summary of Fourteenth Discourse

The knowledge of the three cosmic qualities or Gunas, namely, Sattwa, Rajas and Tamas is now given through this discourse. The knowledge of these three Gunas, which hold the entire universe and all creatures under their sway, is of vital importance to each and everyone for their progress and happiness in life. Without this knowledge one will be forever bound by sorrow. In this knowledge we have the secret of success in worldly life as well as in spiritual life. Therefore, one must acquire this precious knowledge.

Lord Krishna reveals that these three qualities compose the Cosmic Nature. This Cosmic Nature is the primal source and origin of the entire creation and all things in it. Hence all things created are subject to their influence and irresistible power. The individual soul also is bound to the body by these three qualities—Sattwa, Rajas and Tamas—present in Cosmic Nature. The Supreme Being brings about creation through the help of His Prakriti (Nature) endowed with these threefold qualities.

The highest of the three qualities is Sattwa. It is pure. It brings about happiness, wisdom and also illumination. The second quality of Rajas gives rise to passion manifested by intense attachment and greed. It causes sorrow and suffering. The third, termed Tamas, is the worst of all. It arises due to ignorance and results in darkness, lethargy and delusion.

Krishna asks us to diligently endeavour and cast out Tamas from our nature. We should control and master Rajas, and by holding it in check, wisely divert its power towards good kinds of activities. Sattwa should be carefully cultivated, developed and conserved in order to enable us to attain immortality. The realised sage, of course, goes beyond all these qualities, for, although it is Sattwa that enables us to reach God, even this quality will bind us if we are attached to it.

The aspirant should know the symptoms and signs of their presence in his personality and acquire a knowledge of their subtle workings. Then only can he keep smooth and unhampered in his progress in all the fields of his life, both secularly as well as spiritually. Lord Krishna teaches us this important subject in this discourse from the ninth to the eighteenth verse. He declares that one who rises beyond all the three Gunas through spiritual practices, becomes free from birth, death, old age and sorrow, and enjoys immortality.

In reply to a question from Arjuna, the blessed Lord describes the marks of one who has risen above the three Gunas. He states that if one constantly worships Him with exclusive devotion one will attain the highest divine experience and supreme blessedness.

The Yoga of the Division of the Three Gunas

6. Of these, Sattwa, which from its stainlessness, is luminous and healthy, binds by attachment to happiness and by attachment to knowledge, O sinless one!

*Tamastwajnaanajam viddhi mohanam sarvadehinaan;
Pramaadaalasyanidrabhistannibadhnaati bhaarata.*

8. But know thou Tamas to be born of ignorance, deluding all embodied beings; it binds fast, O Arjuna! by heedlessness, indolence and sleep.

*Sattvam sukhe sanjayati rajah karmani bhaarata;

9. Sattwa attaches to happiness, Rajas to action, O Arjuna! while Tamas verily, shrouding knowledge, attaches to heedlessness.

*Rajastamaschaabhibhooya sattwam bhavati bhaarata;

Thus in the Upanishads of the glorious Bhagavad Gita, the science of the Eternal, the scripture of Yoga, the dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna, ends the fourteenth discourse entitled:

*The Yoga of
The Division of the Three Gunas*

Summary of Fifteenth Discourse

---

This discourse is entitled “Purushottama Yoga” or the “Yoga of the Supreme Person”. Here Lord Krishna tells us about the ultimate source of this visible phenomenal universe from which all things have come into being, just like a great tree with all its roots, trunk, branches, twigs, leaves, flowers and fruits which spring forth from the earth, which itself supports the tree and in which it is rooted. Lord Krishna declares that the Supreme Being is the source of all existence, and refers allegorically to this phenomenal universe as being like an inverted tree whose roots are in Para Brahman, and whose spreading branches and foliage constitute all the things and factors that go to make up this vast and variegated created phenomena. This is a very mysterious “Tree” which is very difficult to understand, being a product of His inscrutable power of Maya; and hence a marvellous apparent appearance without having actual reality. One who fully understands the nature of this Samsara-Tree goes beyond Maya. To be attached to it is to be caught in it. The surest way of “cutting down” (transcending) this Samsara is by the excellent weapon of non-attachment and dispassion.

In verses four and five of this discourse the Lord tells us how one goes beyond this visible Samsara and attains the supreme, imperishable status, attaining which one does not have to return to this mortal world of pain and death.

Lord Krishna also describes for us the wonderful mystery of His Presence in this universe and the supreme place He occupies in sustaining everything here. The Lord declares that it is a part of Himself that manifests here as an individual soul in each body. He Himself is the indwelling Oversoul beyond the self. He is the effulgence inherent in the sun, moon and fire. He is present as the nourishing element in the earth. He is the inner Witness of all beings. He is the supreme Knower even beyond the Vedic knowledge. He is the resplendent Person who is beyond both this perishable material creation as well as the imperishable individual soul which is a part of His eternal essence. Thus, because He is beyond perishable matter and superior to the imperishable soul (enveloped in Maya), He is known in this world as well as in the Vedas as the Supreme Person.

20. Thus, this most secret science has been taught by Me, O sinless one! Knowing this, a man becomes wise and all his duties are accomplished, O Arjuna!

Thus in the Upanishads of the glorious Bhagavad Gita, the science of the Eternal, the scripture of Yoga, the dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna, ends the fifteenth discourse entitled:

The Yoga of the Supreme Spirit

Summary of Sixteenth Discourse

This discourse is important and very instructive to all persons who wish to attain happiness, prosperity and blessedness generally, and to seekers in particular, who wish to attain success in their spiritual life. Lord Krishna brings out quite clearly and unmistakably here the intimate connection between ethics and spirituality, between a life of virtue and God-realisation and liberation. Listing two sets of qualities of opposite kinds, the Lord classifies them as divine and demoniacal (undivine), and urges us to eradicate the latter and cultivate divine qualities.

What kind of nature should one develop? What conduct must one follow? What way should one live and act if one must attain God and obtain divine bliss? These questions are answered with perfect clarity and very definitely. The divine qualities are conducive to liberation and the undivine qualities lead to bondage. Purity, good conduct and truth are indispensable to spiritual progress and even to an honourable life here.

Devoid of purity, good conduct and truth, and having no faith in God or a higher Reality beyond this visible world, man degenerates into a two-legged beast of ugly character and cruel actions, and sinks into darkness. Such a person becomes his own enemy and the destroyer of the happiness of others as well as his own. Caught in countless desires and cravings, a slave of sensual enjoyments and beset by a thousand cares, his life ultimately ends in misery and degradation. Haughtiness, arrogance and egoism lead to this dire fate. Therefore, a wise person, desiring success, must eradicate vice and cultivate virtue.

In this world three gates lead to hell—the gates of passion, anger and greed. Released from these three qualities one can succeed in attaining salvation and reaching the highest goal, namely God. Thus the sacred scriptures teach wisely the right path of pure, virtuous living. One should therefore follow the injunctions of the sacred scriptures that wish his welfare and be guided in his actions by their noble teachings.

16 The Yoga of the Division Between The Divine and the Demoniactal

4. Hypocrisy, arrogance and self-conceit, anger and also harshness and ignorance, belong to one who is born for a demoniactal state, O Arjuna!

*Daivee sampadvimokshaaya nibandhaayaasuree mataa;
Maa shuchas sampadam daiveemabhijaatosi paandava*

5. The divine nature is deemed for liberation and the demoniacal for bondage. Grieve not, O Arjuna! Thou art born with divine properties.

*Dwau bhootasargau lokesmin daiva aasura eva cha;
Daivo vistarashah prokta aasuram paartha me shrunu*

6. There are two types of beings in this world—the divine and the demoniacal; the divine has been described at length; hear from Me, O Arjuna! of the demoniacal.

*Pravrittim cha nivrittim cha jana na viduraasuraah;
Na shaucham naapi chaachaaro na satyam teshu vidyate.*

7. The demoniacal know not what to do and what to refrain from; neither purity nor right conduct nor truth is found in them.

*Asatyamapratishtham te jagadaahuraneeshwaram;
Aparasparasambhootam kimanyat kaamahaitukam.*

8. They say: "This universe is without truth, without (moral) basis, without a God, brought about by mutual union, with lust for its cause, what else?"

*Etaam drishtimavashtabhya nashtaatmaano'lpabuddhayah;
Prabhavantyugrakarmaanah kshayaaya jagatohitaah.*

9. Holding this view, these ruined souls of small intellect and fierce deeds come forth as the enemies of the world for its destruction.

*Kaamamaashritya dushpooram dambhamaanamadaanvitaah;
Mohaadgriheetvaasadgraahaan pravartante'shuchivrataah.*

10. Filled with insatiable desires, full of hypocrisy, pride and arrogance, holding evil ideas through delusion, they work with impure resolves.

*Chintaamaparimeyaam cha pralayaantaamupaashritaah;
Kaamopabhogaparamaa etaavaditi nischitaah.*

11. Giving themselves over to immeasurable cares ending only with death, regarding gratification of lust as their highest aim, and feeling sure that that is all,

*Aashaapaashashatairbaddhaah kaamakrodhaparaayanaah;
Eehante kaamabhogaarthamanyayenaarthasanchayaan.*

12. Bound by a hundred ties of hope, given over to lust and anger, they strive to obtain by unlawful means hoards of wealth for sensual enjoyments.

*Idamadya mayaa labdhamimam praapsye manoratham;
Idamasteedamapi me bhavishyati punardhanam.*

13. "This has been gained by me today; this desire I shall obtain; this is mine and this wealth also shall be mine in future."

*Asau mayaa hatas shatrurhanishye chaaparaanapi;
Ishwarohamamaham bhogee siddhoham balavaan sukhee.*

14. "That enemy has been slain by me and others also I shall slay. I am the Lord; I enjoy; I am perfect, powerful and happy."

*Aadhyobhijanavaanasmi konyosti sadrisho mayaa;
Yakshye daasyaami modishya ityajnaanavimohitaah.*

15. "I am rich and born in a noble family; who else is equal to me? I will sacrifice. I will give (charity). I will rejoice,"—thus, deluded by ignorance,

*Anekachittavibhraantaa mohajaalasamaavritaah;
Prasaktaah kaamabhogeshu patanti narake'ashuchau.*

16. Bewildered by many a fancy, entangled in the snare of delusion, addicted to the gratification of lust, they fall into a foul hell.

*Aatmasambhaavitaah stabdhaa dhanamaanamadaanvitaah;
Yajante naamayajnaiste dambhenaavidhipoorvakam.*

17. Self-conceited, stubborn, filled with the pride and intoxication of wealth, they perform sacrifices in name, out of ostentation, contrary to scriptural ordinances.

*Ahamkaaram balam darpam kaamam krodham cha samshritaah;
Maamaatmaparadeheshu pradvishantobhyasooyakaah.*

18. Given over to egoism, power, haughtiness, lust and anger, these malicious people hate Me in their own bodies and those of others.

*Taanaham dwishatah krooraan samsaareshu naraadhamaan;
Kshipaamyajasramashubhaanaasureeshweva yonishu.*

19. These cruel haters, worst among men in the world, I hurl these evil-doers into the wombs of demons only.

*Aasureem yonimaapannaa moodhaa janmani janmani;
Maamapraapyaiva kaunteya tato yaantyaadhamaam gatim.*

20. Entering into demoniacal wombs and deluded birth after birth, not attaining Me, they thus fall, O Arjuna! into a condition still lower than that.

*Trividham narakasyedam dwaaram naashanamaatmanah;
Kaamah krodhastathaa lobhastasmaadetat trayam tyajet.*

21. Triple is the gate of this hell, destructive of the self—lust, anger and greed; therefore one should abandon these three.

*Etairvimuktah kaunteya tamodwaaraistribhirarah;

22. A man who is liberated from these three gates to darkness, O Arjuna! practises what is good for him and thus goes to the supreme goal.

*Yas shaastravidhimutsrujya vartate kaamakaaratah;
Na sa siddhimavaapnoti na sukham na paraam gatim.*

23. He who, having cast aside the ordinances of the scriptures, acts under the impulse of desire, attains not perfection nor happiness nor the supreme goal.

*Tasmaat shaastram pramaanam te kaaryaakaaryavyavasthitau;
Jnaatwaa shaastravidhaanoktam karma kartumihaarhasi.*

24. Therefore, let the scripture be the authority in determining what ought to be done and what ought not to be done. Having known what is said in the ordinance of the scriptures, thou shouldst act here in this world.

Thus in the Upanishads of the glorious Bhagavad Gita, the science of the Eternal, the scripture of Yoga, the dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna, ends the sixteenth discourse entitled:

*The Yoga of the Division Between
The Divine and the Demoniactal*

Summary of Seventeenth Discourse

This discourse is termed the “Yoga of the Division of the Three Kinds of Faith”. The theme of this discourse arises out of the question asked by Arjuna in Verse 1 with reference to the final closing advice of Lord Krishna in the previous discourse, contained in the last two verses therein (Verses 23 and 24). Arjuna asks, “What about those who, even though setting aside scriptural injunctions yet perform worship with faith?”

The Lord replies and states that the faith of such men who ignore the injunctions of the scriptures could be either Sattwic, Rajasic or Tamasic. This would be in accordance with the basic nature of the person himself. And, conversely, as is the kind of faith, so develops the nature of the man.

Thus, in all things like sacrifice, worship, charity, penance, etc., these qualities become expressed in accordance with the kind of faith in which the person concerned is based. They produce results in accordance with the quality of the doer's faith. These acts done with right faith lead to supreme blessedness. When done without any faith whatsoever, all these actions become barren and useless.

The Blessed Lord said:

2. Threefold is the faith of the embodied, which is inherent in their nature—Sattwic (pure), Rajasic (passionate), and Tamasic (dark). Do thou hear of it.

*Sattvaanuroopaa sarvasya shraddhaa bhavati bhaarata;

Pretaana bhootaganaamschaanye yajante taamasaa janaah.*

Maam chaivaantasshareerastham taanvidhyaasuranischayaan.*

6. Senseless, torturing all the elements in the body and Me also who dwell in the body,—know thou these to be of demoniacal resolves.

*Ahaastwapi sarvasya trividho bhavati priyah;
Yajnastapastathaa daanam yeshaam bhedamimam srunu.*

7. The food also which is dear to each is threefold, as also sacrifice, austerity and alms-giving. Hear thou the distinction of these.

Rasyaas snigdhaas sthira hridyaa aahaaras saattvikapriyaah.*

8. The foods which increase life, purity, strength, health, joy and cheerfulness (good appetite), which are savoury and oleaginous, substantial and agreeable, are dear to the Sattwic (pure) people.

*Katvamlalavanaatyushnateekshnarookshavidaahinah;
Aahaaraa raajasasyeshtaa duhkhashokaamayapradaah.*

9. The foods that are bitter, sour, saline, very hot, pungent,

11. That sacrifice which is offered by men without desire for reward, as enjoined by the ordinance (scripture), with a firm faith that to do so is a duty, is Sattwic or pure.

*Abhisandhaaya tu phalam dambhaarthamapi chaiva yat;
Iyyate bharatashreshtha tam yajnam viddhi raajasam.*

12. The sacrifice which is offered, O Arjuna! seeking a reward and for ostentation, know thou that to be a Rajasic Yajna.

*Vidhiheenamasrishtaannam mantraheenamadakshinam;
Shraddhaavirahitam yajnam taamasam parichakshate.*

13. They declare that sacrifice to be Tamasic which is contrary to the ordinances of the scriptures, in which no food is distributed, which is devoid of Mantras and gifts, and which is devoid of faith.

*Devadwijagurupraajnapoojanam shauchamaarjavam;
Brahmacharyamahimsaa cha shareeram tapa uchyate.*

14. Worship of the gods, the twice-born, the teachers and the wise, purity, straightforwardness, celibacy and non-injury are called the austerities of the body.

*Anudwegakaram vaakyam satyam priyahitam cha yat;
Swaadhyaayaabhyasanam chaiva vaangmayam tapa uchyate.*

15. Speech which causes no excitement, truthful, pleasant and beneficial, the practice of the study of the Vedas, are called austerities of speech.

*Manahprasaadas saumyatwam maunamaatmavinigraha;
Bhaavasamshuddhirityetattapa maanasamuchyate.*

16. Serenity of mind, good-heartedness, purity of nature, self-control—this is called mental austerity.

*Shraddhayaa parayaa taptam tapastattrividham naraih;
Aphalaakaankshibhiryuktais saattvikam parichakshate.*

17. This threefold austerity practised by steadfast men with the utmost faith, desiring no reward, they call Sattwic.

*Satkaaramaanapoojaartham tapo dambhena chaiva yat;
Kriyate tadiha proktam raajasam chalamadhravam.*

18. The austerity which is practised with the object of gaining good reception, honour and worship and with hypocrisy, is here said to be Rajasic, unstable and transitory.

*Moodhagraahenaatmano yat peedayaa kriyate tapah;
Parasyotsaadanaartham vaa tattaamasamudaahritam.*

19. The austerity which is practised out of a foolish notion, with self-torture, or for the purpose of destroying another, is declared to be Tamasic.

*Daatavyamiti yaddaanam deeyatenupakaarine;
Deshe kaale cha paatre cha taddaanam saattvikam smritam.*

20. That gift which is given to one who does nothing in return, knowing it to be a duty to give in a fit place and time to a worthy person, that gift is held to be Sattwic.

*Yattu pratyupakaaraartham phalamuddishya vaa punah;
Deeyate cha pariklishtam taddaanam raajasam smritam.*

21. And that gift which is given with a view to receive something in return, or looking for a reward or reluctantly, is held to be Rajasic.

*Adeshakaale yaddaanamapaatrebhyascha deeyate;
Asatkritamavajnaatam tattaamasamudaahritam.*

22. The gift which is given at the wrong place and time to unworthy persons, without respect or with insult, is declared to be Tamasic.

Commentary: At the wrong place and time—at a place which is not holy, where irreligious people congregate, and at a time which is not auspicious. This does not discourage giving of alms or other charity to the poor and the needy.

*Om tatsaditi nirदेशो ब्रह्मणः त्रिविधः स्मृतः;
ब्रह्मणा अस्तेना वेदाश्च यज्ज्ञाश्च विहिताश्च पुराः*

23. “Om Tat Sat”—this has been declared to be the triple designation of Brahman. By that were created formerly the Brahmanas, the Vedas and the sacrifices.

*Tasmaadomityudaahritya yajnadaanatapahkriyaah;
Pravartante vidhaanoktaas satatam brahmavaadinaam.*

24. Therefore, with the utterance of “Om” are the acts of sacrifice, gift and austerity as enjoined in the scriptures always begun by the students of Brahman.

*Tadityanabhisandhaaya phalam yajnatapahkriyaah;
Daanakriyaascha vividhaah kriyante mokshakaankshibhih.*

25. Uttering “Tat”, without aiming at the fruits, are the acts of sacrifice and austerity and the various acts of gift performed by the seekers of liberation.

*Sadbhaave saadhubhaave cha sadityetadprayujyate;
Prashaste karmani tathaa sacchabdah paartha yujyate.*

26. The word "Sat" is used in the sense of reality and of goodness; and so also, O Arjuna! the word "Sat" is used in the sense of an auspicious act.

*Yajne tapasi daane cha sthitis saditi chochyate;
Karma chaiva tadartheeyam sadityevaabhidheeyate.*

27. Steadfastness in sacrifice, austerity and gift is also called "Sat", and also action in connection with these (or for the sake of the Supreme) is called "Sat".

*Ashraddhayaa hutam dattam tapastaptam kritam cha yat;
Asadityuchyate paartha na cha tatpretya no iha.*

28. Whatever is sacrificed, given or performed, and whatever austerity is practised without faith, is called "Asat", O Arjuna! It is naught here or hereafter (after death).

Thus in the Upanishads of the glorious Bhagavad Gita, the science of the Eternal, the scripture of Yoga, the dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna, ends the seventeenth discourse entitled:

The Yoga of the Division of the Threefold Faith

Summary of Eighteenth Discourse

---

The eighteenth discourse, which is the conclusion of the divine discourse of Lord Krishna, is in many ways a summary of the foregoing portions of the Gita. It covers in brief numerous important points dealt with in the previous discourses. Here you behold the ultimate result or effect of the Lord's discourse to Arjuna. The drama of Arjuna's utter despondency and breakdown is finally resolved in triumphant self-mastery, strength and bold resoluteness. Its central message emerges as an assurance that in and through the performance of one's respective duties in life one can qualify for the highest liberation, if one performs actions by renouncing egoism and attachment and surrendering all desire for selfish, personal gain. By regarding the performance of your duties as a worship offered to God, you obtain the Grace of the Lord and attain the eternal One.

Significantly, this discourse opens with a question by Arjuna asking what is true Sannyasa and true Tyaga (renunciation). In reply to this important and crucial query, the blessed Lord Krishna makes it clear to us that real Sannyasa or renunciation lies in renunciation of selfish and impure actions, and even more in the renunciation of the desire or greed for the fruits of any action. Very clearly we are told that selfless and virtuous actions and actions conducive to the welfare of others should not be abandoned. You must engage yourself in performing such action but renouncing attachment and greed. The true and proper renunciation is giving up of selfishness and attachment while performing one's legitimate duties. This is called Sattwic Tyaga. We neither hate unpleasant action nor are we attached to pleasurable action. As it is not possible for you to renounce all action, the renunciation of egoism, selfishness and attachment in your activity is declared as true renunciation. Karma does not accumulate and bind one who is thus established in such inner renunciation.

The divine injunction is that God must be made the sole object of one's life. This is the heart of the Gita gospel. This is the central message in its teaching. This is the one way to your welfare here.

Now Sanjaya concludes his narrative by declaring that where there is such obedience as that of Arjuna, and such willing readiness to carry out the divine teachings, there surely prosperity, victory, glory and all blessedness will prevail.

The Yoga of Liberation by Renunciation

---

Arjuna Uvaacha:

*Sannyasasya mahaabaaho tattwamicchaami veditum;
Tyaagasya cha hrisheeksha prithak keshinishoodana.*

Arjuna said:

1. I desire to know severally, O mighty-armed! the essence or truth of renunciation, O Hrishikesa! as also of abandonment, O slayer of Kesi!

Sri Bhagavan Uvaacha:

*Kaamyanaam karmanaam nyaasam sannyasam kavayo
viduh;
Sarvakarmaphalatyaagam praahustyaagam vichakshanaah.*

The Blessed Lord said:

2. The sages understand Sannyasa to be the renunciation of action with desire; the wise declare the abandonment of the fruits of all actions as Tyaga.

*Tyaajyam doshavadityeke karma praahurmaneeshinah;
Yajnadaanatapahkarma na tyaaajyamiti chaapare.*

3. Some philosophers declare that action should be abandoned as an evil, while others (declare) that acts of sacrifice, gift and austerity should not be relinquished.

The Yoga of Liberation by Renunciation

Study of the Gita

Study of the Gita alone is sufficient for the purpose of daily scriptural study. You will find a solution here for all your doubts. The more you study with devotion and faith, the more will you get deeper knowledge, penetrative insight and clear, right thinking. Even if you live in the spirit of one verse of the Gita, all your miseries will come to an end and you will attain the goal of life—immortality and eternal peace.

The Gita is a gospel for the whole world. It is meant for the generality of mankind. It was given over five thousand years ago on the battlefield of Kurukshetra by Lord Krishna to Arjuna.

None but the Lord can bring out such an unprecedented and marvellous book, which gives peace to the readers, which helps and guides them in the attainment of supreme bliss. This itself proves clearly that God exists, that He is an embodiment of knowledge and that one can attain perfection or liberation by realising Him alone.

The whole world is a big battlefield. The real Kurukshetra is within you. The battle of Mahabharata is still raging within you. Ignorance is Dhritarashtra. The individual soul is Arjuna. The Indweller in your heart is Lord Krishna, the charioteer. The body is your chariot. The senses are the horses. Mind, egoism, senses, mental impressions, latent tendencies, cravings, likes and dislikes, lust, jealousy, greed, pride and hypocrisy are your dire enemies.

As the Gita contains subtle and profound teachings, you should study it under a qualified teacher—a preceptor who is established in the Absolute—with great and intense faith, single-minded devotion and purity. Only then will the truths of the Gita be revealed unto you like a fruit on the palm of your hand.

Good commentaries like those of Swami Sankarananda, Sri Sankara and Swami Madhusudana, written by sages of Self-realisation, will be of immense help to you.

Worldly-minded people, however intellectual they may be, cannot grasp the essential teachings of the Gita. They will enter into unnecessary discussions and useless debates. They will cavil at and carp on the teachings. They say, “There is no intimate connection between the verses. They are thrown in a disorderly manner. There is a great deal of repetition.” If they study the Gita with reverence and faith under a qualified teacher, all their doubts will vanish. They will realise that there is a close connection between one verse and another in all the chapters. Repetitions in the Gita and the Upanishads are useful repetitions.

Lord Krishna speaks from different levels of consciousness. In the Gita, the term “Avyaktam” sometimes refers to Mula-prakriti (primordial nature) and sometimes to Para Brahman also. Therefore, the help of a teacher is necessary if you wish to know the right significance of the verses. In the Kathopanishad, the term “brick” is used to denote a Devata (god). In Hatha Yoga it is said: “At the junction of the rivers Yamuna and the Ganga there is a young virgin.” The esoteric meaning is: “There is the Sushumna Nadi between the Ida and the Pingala.”

You cannot understand the real meaning of these terms without the help of a Master. Even so, you cannot rightly comprehend the meaning of the verses of the Gita without the help of a teacher.

The three horses of this body-chariot—action, emotion and intellect—should work in perfect harmony. Only then will this body-chariot move smoothly and you can reach the destination safely and quickly. Only then can you rejoice in the Self within. Only then can you sing the song of “Soham” (I am He). Only then can you be in tune with the Infinite. Only then can you hear the soundless voice of the Soul and enjoy the sweet internal music of the Self.

The Gita is divided into three sections, illustrative of the three terms of the Mahavakya of the Sama Veda—“Tat Twam Asi” (That Thou Art). In accordance with this view, the first six chapters deal with the path of action or Karma Yoga and the nature of “Thou” or the Twam-pada. The next six chapters explain the path of devotion or Bhakti Yoga and the nature of “That” or Tat-pada. The last six chapters treat of the path of knowledge of Jnana Yoga and the nature of the term “Art” or Asi-pada, which establishes the identity of the individual and the Supreme Soul.

You can become a liberated sage by annihilating the ego and the two currents of likes and dislikes. You can become a sage by annihilating desires and cravings, and by destroying the Samskaras and Sankalpas. You can thus rest in your own essential nature and still you can be active in the affairs of the world. You will not be bound by Karmas. You will not be tainted by actions, because the idea of doership would have been destroyed by the attainment of knowledge of the Self. This is the keynote of the Gita.

In the Vishnu Purana, Bhagavan Vishnu is highly eulogised and a secondary place is given to Lord Shiva. In the Shiva Purana it is Lord Shiva who is praised and a secondary place is given to Lord Vishnu. In the Devi Bhagawatam, Devi is highly eulogised and a secondary place is given to Lord Shiva and Lord Vishnu. This is done in order to create intense and unswerving faith in the aspirant for his favourite Deity. Shiva, Vishnu and Devi are one. They are different aspects of the Lord. It is simply absurd if you believe that Shiva is inferior to Vishnu or that Vishnu is inferior to Shiva.

So also, in one place Lord Krishna praises Karma Yoga. He says: "The Yoga of action is verily better than renunciation of action." In another place He praises Jnana Yoga. In the third place the Lord praises Bhakti Yoga.

A neophyte will be confused when he comes across these verses. But there is no room for any confusion if you think deeply. Lord Krishna praises each Yoga in order to create interest in the aspirant in his particular path or Yoga. You must remember that the Gita is a book for the people of the world at large. It was not meant for Arjuna alone. Each Yoga is as efficacious and potent as the others.

India is held in high esteem by the Westerners on account of the Gita. Mahatma Gandhi once visited one of the largest libraries in London and asked the librarian, "What spiritual book is issued most frequently?" The librarian replied, "The Gita."

The Gita is very popular throughout the world. All aspirants should try to get the whole of the eighteen chapters by heart. This can be done through daily study in about two years, by getting two verses by heart daily.

Study of the Gita should be made compulsory in all schools and colleges of India. It should become a textbook for schools and colleges. It should be introduced in the curriculum. It should find a very important place in every scheme of education. Only that system of education wherein moral and spiritual training are imparted along with secular knowledge, can be deemed as sound, practical, sensible and perfect.

Hold the magnificent torch of faith. Float high the unique banner of peace. Wear the magnificent shield of dispassion. Put on the marvellous coat-of-arms of discrimination. Sing the immortal song of Soham or Sivoham or Sitaram. March boldly with the band of Pranava. Blow the conch of courage. Kill the enemies of doubt, ignorance, passion and egoism. Enter the illimitable kingdom of Atma. Taste the divine immortal essence.

May the blessings of Lord Krishna be upon you all! May the Gita be your centre, ideal and goal! Blessed is the man who studies the Gita daily! Twice blessed is he who lives in the spirit of the Gita! Thrice blessed is he who has realised the knowledge of the Gita—Atmajnana or Self-knowledge!

—Sivananda
